Not for Europe.
Divorce for Loneliness.
Keats' Shakespeare.
Chicago Will Lead.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

EUROPE expects to offer billions in German bonds to this country, proceeds for the Allies.

From that danger, our home-made usury may save us. Americans are paying from 7½ to 9 per cent interest on money now.

Europe would never consent to any such blood-sucker rate. They got rid of usury with the war's end. We have taken to it since then.

THE Association for the Improvement of Divorce Laws suggests that divorce be granted to the lonely. That new divorce cause, intended to help women, is said to be based on moral considerations.

LONELINESS is a curse and drives victims "to seek companionship and relationship that lead to disgrace." So says the association, and it would give the lonely wife or husband freedom.

Loneliness unfortunately, is not ended so easily. There is loneliness in crowds.

Russia has a simple plan, giving divorce when the person asking for it says, "I am discontented."

Such a law might diminish divorces. What men know they can have they sometimes do not want.

A SEVEN volume edition of Shakespeare is found, with many annotations on the margins by John Keats.

But the volumes showing how much Keats owed to the inspiration of Shakespeare were discovered by Prof. Caroline Spurgeon, of London University, thanks to a casual remark, overheard in Henry Fairfield Osborn's drawing room.

If Prof. Spurgeon could find the annotated volume of Chapman's Homer that Keats read through in a night, before writing his poem about the "Peak in Darien", the world would be thankful.

IN NOVEMBER, Chicago will vote to spend or not to spend $12,000,000 for a flying field, or an artificially made island in Lake Michigan, downtown in the heart of Chicago.

You may rely on it, Chicago will vote YES and build the airport.

WITH this magnificent air field of 1,000 acres, Chicago will be the only great city with an air field within easy reach of the heart of business and of the big post office. London, Berlin and Paris are handicapped by the fact that their air ports, the three greatest in the world, are all a long hour's trip from the center of the city.

THAT landing field will make of Chicago the great airways center, as, now, it is one of the world's greatest railway centers.

Chicago will vote "yes" while big New York sleeps soundly, talks loudly, and watches Army officers playing polo on Governor's Island, on the city's edge, where planes should be landing every minute.

CUSTOM HOUSE officials say "fake antiques" cost this country millions a year, more than half the so-called antiques bring us.

That is a low estimate of the bogus average.

HOWEVER, even frauds may cultivate public taste gradually. And Americans are not the first to be taken in. Michael Angelo made beautiful imitation Greek statues, buried them for a while, and sent them to a cardinal in Rome.

Word came not to let anyone know where he had found the statues. The cardinal would dig for others.

It was a good natured cardinal, with sound artistic taste. He took good naturedly the imposition, meant to show Michael Angelo's ability. And he encouraged the lad, destined to be a sculptor greater than any Greek.

Fortunate cardinal to get "fakes" made by Michael Angelo and recognize their worth. What would those "fakes" be worth now?

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY savings banks in New York state pay every day $500,000 interest to depositors.

Savings bank interest in New England, New Jersey and New York amounts to $1,000,000 a day. It makes a great difference whether interest is running with you or against you.

ALMOST any man or woman, of average earnings, could be independent at 50. But the majority will continue to reach old age with nothing saved. Some cannot save, more cannot keep what is saved.

NORMAN HAPGOOD, supporting Gov. Smith, says Woodrow Wilson agreed with Gov. Smith's prohibition views.

Wilson, according to Hapgood, thought national government should only regulate liquor trade between states, letting each state arrange its own drink problem.

HAPGOOD says, also, that great sums are being spent "in a Protestant drive to control the government." He says "there is bigger money behind the drive than the Ku Klux Klan, alone, could supply."

There is no doubt whatever that much campaign money will be furnished from religious sources.

HUNT FOR JAWORSKI LOOT IN MINE

CHARLEROI, Pa., Sept. 24.—After disclosures today by John Rodgers, Fallowfield township farmer, treasure hunters intent on finding $60,000, a portion of the bandit loot believed buried on Joe Weckoski's farm by Paul Jaworski and his "Flathead" gang, turned their attention to an abandoned mine shaft in an isolated section of the township.

Chief of Police Jack Thomas, of Charleroi, expected to head a number of men, who will open the shaft and search the interior of the workings. Rodgers revealed today that, following the Coverdale $104,000 payroll robbery, one of Jaworski's automobiles was found abandoned near the mine. Two men were said to have entered the pit and then beat a hasty retreat to the Weckoski farm nearby.

The mine opening had been pulled in, tons of earth having collapsed above the pit mouth. An investigation later disclosed that the "cavein" was not by accident, but had been dynamited and the pit thus effectively sealed.

NIP RESCUE PLOT

Believing that Pittsburgh gangsters, armed with machine guns, were en route to Cleveland to rescue Paul Jaworski, payroll robber and leader of the notorious "Flat Head gang," Cleveland police yesterday moved the wounded gangster from the prison ward of a hospital to a hospital cot in the county jail. The report of such a delivery was unknown to Pittsburgh authorities.

Cleveland police made the change when they were informed that gangsters were riding toward that city in a large yellow sedan with a machine gun mounted in the tonneau. The machine was reported sighted while traveling from the direction of Pittsburgh. A strict watch was maintained along the roads between the two cities, but the car was not seen by police.

WILL PROBABLY LIVE

Physicians said that the gunman's condition was much improved and that it is very likely that he will recover and stand trial for the slaying of a Cleveland policeman. The policeman was killed, two others wounded and a pedestrian and Jaworski shot when police attempted to capture the gangster and a pal in a Cleveland restaurant two weeks ago.

TRANSFERS WITH 5 CT. N. Y. BUS FARE

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—New York and New Jersey break all records for low bus fares. The rates range from 5 to 10 cents.

New York City's famous Fifth Avenue Coach Company, which has been in operation since the gay nineties, charges a 10-cent fare and gives transfers between its various routes. The longest ride covers 10 miles. It is possible to ride from Washington Square to One Hundred and Eighty-first street for one fare.

New York is not a particularly hilly city but some lines have climbs which put Pittsburgh busses to shame. The coaches have a mile long hill to reach the top of Washington Heights. The grade ranges from 3 per cent to 10 per cent in steepness. Its average is about 7 per cent. This means that the busses must go seven feet higher in every 100 feet.

The Fifth Avenue Coach Company hauled 70,000,000 passengers last year on 411 busses. Along Fifth avenue where all of the lines converge 80 busses an hour are operated.

New York City also has 5-cent municipal busses. Most of these are operated on crosstown lines where the distances are short. Busses are also being operated in the Bronx at a 5-cent fare by the Third Avenue Railway Company.

CANTWELL HURT BY COMMY'S LINER

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—The Pirates defeated the Braves in the first half of a double-header here today.

The game was costly to both clubs in that Carmen Hill, Buc pitcher, and Ben Cantwell, Hub hurler, were injured by line drives. The thumb on Cantwell's left hand was broken in the second inning when he stopped Comorosky's line drive with his gloved hand. Delaney relieved him on the mound.

Hill was forced to quit at the end of the sixth inning after Meuller, the last Boston batter to face him in that frame, had struck him on the arm with a savage liner.

The first game in detail:

FIRST INNING

PITTSBURGH—Adams singled to left. L. Waner flied to Brown. P. Waner forced Adams, Sisler to Farrell. Farrell threw high in trying for a double play and P. Waner took second. Traynor flied to Sisler. One hit, one error.

BOSTON—Richbourg singled on the infield. Brown grounded into a double play, Wright to Adams to Grantham. Wright threw out Sisler. One hit.

SECOND INNING

PITTSBURGH—Grantham popped to Farrell. Wright singled on the infield. Comorosky singled sharply off Cantwell's glove hand, Wright taking second. The terrible wallop hurt the young pitcher so badly he was rushed to the clubhouse for medical treatment. Delaney came out of the dugout and warmed up on the mound. Delaney went to the mound for the Braves. Hemsley flied to Mueller. Hill sin-

LANG "ON CARPET," RAPS COUNCILMEN

Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang was called on the carpet by Council today for an explanation of why the asphalt division ignored the resurfacing schedule authorized by Council for this year. Instead of resurfacing the streets designated, Council charged the director or some other official in his department with resurfacing streets not scheduled this year.

"Importunities of councilmen," is the cause, Director Lang said. When pressed to give the names of councilmen who requested work done on streets not on the schedule, Director Lang said he could not give the names at this time.

HERRON DEMANDS REPORT

"Then make a report to us, giving the names as soon as possible," Councilman John Herron said.

Herron read a list of 28 streets which had been resurfaced that were not on the schedule. The cost of the work was $94,000. On the other hand, but 21 streets out of more than 50, Councilman Herron pointed out, which were authorized were completed.

"It will not occur again." Director Lang said. "To eliminate this practice in the future, I suggest council pass resolutions on each street."

"And believe me," the director declared, speaking to Herron, "next year when any councilman comes to me and requests street work not on the schedule, he will receive a cool reception."

"The sad reflection of the director is that it took a year for him to decide," Herron shot back.

"Smith's" Districts Fail

Gov. Alfred E. Smith is not running so strongly in certain sections of Pennsylvania claimed for him by his adherents, according to indications of the straw vote canvass of Pennsylvania by The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Herbert Hoover has taken and maintained a substantial lead in the state poll mainly because of support in rural counties, but in addition Smith has fallen behind in the districts which his adherents, supported to some extent by political observers, have frequently asserted are of a decided Smith complexion.

Counties such as Philadelphia, Luzerne, Lackawanna and Erie have been steadily reported to contain Smith supporters in strong numbers. These counties have accorded him substantial support, but Hoover has received strong support also, generally equal to that of the Democratic candidate.

Hoover again wins in the returns for the day, capturing 1,160 votes to 844 for Smith. The Republican candidate thereby increases his lead in the state poll to date to 7,902, with more than 41,000 voters having recorded their choice.

The standing at present in the Pennsylvania poll, conducted in connection with the nation-wide canvass by the Hearst papers, is as follows: Hoover, 25,501, including 19,087 men and 6,414 women; Smith, 17,599, including 12,649 men and 4,950 women.

This vote in 1924 was cast as follows: Coolidge, 30,338, including 22,578 men and 7,760 women; Davis, 4,274, including 3,452 men and 822 [illegible]; La Follette, 2,862.

Here's Case Of People Vs. Graft

These direct charges have been made against the city administration of Mayor Charles H. Kline by Alderman Verona:

Booze joints and gambling dens are flourishing on the Hill under police protection.

Slot machines are placed with the sanction of the administration.

Kline's administration leaders collected $7,500 a week graft from Al Forney's slot machines.

They collected $5,000 a week from Jakey Klein.

Jimmy Smith, of Greenfield, paid $500 a week for protection for many months.

Every official in the city's administration knows what is going on, and dives are being protected by the highest officials of the city.

Mayor Fires Verona

Mayor Charles H. Kline at noon today removed Magistrate J. J. Verona from office.

This action came while District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner was presenting Verona's charges of graft and corruption against the city administration to Judge J. B. Drew.

Following the conference with Judge Drew, Gardner would not state what had taken place or what action he contemplates.

At no place in his letter dismissing the magistrate did Mayor Kline refer to the serious charges made by Verona last Thursday, when he declared vice resorts are flourishing in the Hill district under police protection and "that every official in the city administration knows what is going on and dives are being protected by the highest police officials of the city."

Verona's activities against the city police are characterized by the Mayor as done for "spite, reprisal and revenge" and without thought of public good.

The Mayor said he did not expect to send the name of a successor to Verona to City Council today.

District Attorney Gardner last week announced his intention of seeing Judge Drew, presiding judge in Common Pleas Court, about the charges of Verona, but was prevented, he said, both Friday and Saturday because Judge Drew was occupied with court matters.

POLICE RAID

The first move of the police to action on the vice and graft charges that Alderman Verona hurled against the Kline administration occurred early yesterday when downtown police smashed into an alleged gambling establishment on the third floor of 410 Third avenue.

Forty-two men were arrested, poker chips and playing cards confiscated, and five tables destroyed.

This is the establishment that Verona charged once paid $5,000 a week for "protection" through its one-

KLINE LETTER FIRING VERONA

This is the text of Mayor Kline's letter discharging John J. Verona as magistrate:

"I have hereby removed you as police magistrate of the City of Pittsburgh for the following reasons:

"Interference on the part of minor peace officers with the city police presents a serious menace not only to the property but the life of every citizen of this community. It presents also a situation that calls for action and an immediate solution.

"Aldermen and their constables have a place in our system of government, but, and this is especially true in congested communities, they are not the primary protectors of the persons and possessions of our people. This tremendous responsibility rests on the shoulders of the police, maintained at a great yearly expense by every large city.

"Anyone who seeks to weaken this branch of our service strikes a blow at the pillars of society, because it is this agency which guards the home, the most precious thing in the life of every man, woman and child.

CITES ARRESTS

"Recently efforts have been made through you as an alderman and your constables, notwithstanding you were a part of the administration, to arrest police officers late on Saturday, refusing them bail and compelling them to remain in jail until Monday morning. Such action bears on its face palpable earmarks of being prompted by no particular interest in the law, but for purposes of spite, reprisal and revenge.

"But that is not the serious phase. If such a course of action can be applied to one, two or three officers, what is to prevent it being done to all? A combination of all the minor peace officers on such an un-American plan could result in the arrest of every policeman under such circumstances and our people would wake up some Sunday morning to find they had no police protection at all. This could continue for many hours and in the meantime the city could be sacked and even burned, wholesale murder committed and pillage done. To the possibility of such a dangerous and foreboding result to the peace and safety of our people no one can lend countenance.

"I, therefore, have removed you as a police magistrate for the city of Pittsburgh."

WRITE THAT ZAIN AD NOW!

If your first Zain Ad-Test ad is not on its way to the office of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph by now, get busy. Get into the game at the outset and thus improve your chances of capturing a prize during the first period.

There is a good deal of satisfaction, isn't there, in the thought that you stand a chance to win a cash prize of $1,000 or one of the numerous others, making a total of $15,000 in money and merchandise, that the Sun-Telegraph and a group of local business concerns will award to the writers of the best ads submitted in the Zain Ad-Test?

It's a pretty safe bet that you will get pleasure from writing your ad. And that it will be a good deal easier than you think.

NO PROFESSIONALS

Perhaps you are saying to yourself, "If the game is ad writing, that lets me out. Ad writing is a profession that calls for skill and training. A novice like me wouldn't have a look-in."

It is true that ad writing is a profession, but you are wrong in assuming that you will have to compete with professionals. Nothing of the sort. PROFESSIONAL AD WRITERS AND NEWSPAPER EMPLOYES ARE BARRED FROM THE AD-TEST. It will be limited strictly to amateurs, to folks like yourself.

Some doubting Thomas probably will say, however: "Even though the skilled ad writers are barred, the game is not for me. I haven't the education or the command of

Film Directors Muzzled :-: How Those "Talking Movies" Are Made! :-: Revolutionizing Screen

MANUFACTURING "TALKIES"

Talking films are made with a director as quiet as though he wore a Maxim silencer, the camera grinding in a soundproof chamber and complex instruments of science picking up the voices of the actors and translating them into either light waves or disc records, to be turned back into sound by the various methods.

DISCS

Helene Costello and Cullen Landis appear this way in a disc "talkie."

1 CAMERA AND MICROPHONE SIMULTANEOUSLY COVER SOUNDS AND ACTIONS
2 SOUND WAVES FROM PERFORMERS ENTER SENSITIVE MICROPHONE AND ARE CHANGED INTO CORRESPONDING ELECTRICAL VIBRATIONS
3 THE ELECTRIC CURRENT, NOW CARRYING THE TRANSFORMED SOUND WAVES FROM THE MICROPHONE, FLOWS THROUGH WIRES TO THE AMPLIFIER, WHERE ITS INTENSITY IS INCREASED OVER 1,000,000 TIMES BY THE POWERFUL VACUUM TUBES
POWER AMPLIFIER
4 THE SOUND CARRYING CURRENT NOW FLOWS THRU' WIRES TO THE CAMERA, WHICH CONTAINS THE WONDERFUL "AEO" LIGHT TUBE
5 THE CURRENT ENTERS THE "AEO" LIGHT TUBE, A RECENTLY PERFECTED INVENTION, MARVELOUSLY SENSITIVE TO THE SLIGHTEST VARIATION OF ELECTRIC IMPULSE. THE FLUCTUATIONS OF THE CARRIER WAVE CAUSE THE LIGHT TO FLARE AND DIM CORRESPONDINGLY AND THIS FLUCTUATING LIGHT STRIKES UPON THE PHOTOGRAPHIC FILM THROUGH A TINY SLOT, (SEE 6 ABOVE) THE RESULT IS A NARROW BAND OF MICROSCOPIC LINES OF VARYING DENSITIES PRINTED UPON THE EDGE OF THE FILM, ALONGSIDE THE PICTURES OF THE PERFORMERS WHOSE VOICES AND MOVEMENTS ARE BEING RECORDED.
6 A SIMPLIFIED SECTIONAL VIEW. A-FILM AS IT PASSES THRU' THE CAMERA. B-"AEO" LIGHT TUBE. C-SLOT THRU' WHICH LIGHT STRIKES ON FILM.
7 BELOW IS REPRESENTED A BIT OF THE FINISHED PRODUCT SHOWING ACTION AND SOUND PHOTOGRAPHED ON THE SAME STRIP OF FILM. EVERY MOVEMENT IS ACCOMPANIED ON THE FILM BY THE SOUNDS APPROPRIATE TO THAT MOVEMENT. THIS DUAL RECORD IS PERMANENT, INSEPARABLE.
8 BY A REVERSAL OF THE ABOVE OUTLINED PROCESS, THE MICROSCOPIC LINES ARE RECONVERTED INTO SOUND WAVES AND PROJECTED THROUGH A LOUD SPEAKER SIMULTANEOUSLY WITH THE PICTURE SHOWN UPON THE SCREEN. REPRODUCTION IS ABSOLUTELY AND AUTOMATICALLY SYNCHRONOUS.

METHOD INVOLVING PHYSICS

Of all the methods now in vogue in making "talkies," perhaps the most amazing is the one by which the sound is actually photographed on the film. This involves a principle of physics which provides that sound waves may be converted into light rays. Light rays are transferred to the film and then reconverted into sound at the theater.

EDDIE CANTOR

And Eddie Cantor, the comedian, has turned to the "talking screen."

GIRL FEARING GANG FLEES REFUGE

Clad in only a night dress, Dorothy Sage, 16, escaped early today from the Juvenile detention rooms in Forbes street where she had been placed following her arrest Wednesday in a downtown hotel.

When placed in the detention home the girl said she feared for her life because her testimony in Morals Court had resulted in four men being held for court on serious charges.

According to police the Sage girl disappeared from her home four weeks ago. Last Tuesday she was found in a downtown hotel and her story resulted in the arrest of Ted Parsons, 25, of Melwood street; Oscar Zang, 24, of Amber street; J. C. Brunocks, 26, of Carey way, and Charles Kaiser, 25, of Jacksonia boulevard. She testified the men had taken her to the hotel and kept her there. They were held for court and the girl placed in the home.

Her escape was discovered shortly after midnight this morning by an attendant. Her clothing was found at the home and only her night dress is missing. Police throughout the city were given a description of the girl.

GANGSTERS HARD HIT IN CHI.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—A series of week-end raids that snared 25 men and two women was being pointed today as one of the greatest single blows at Chicago crime in recent months. More than 100 crimes have been solved as a result of the arrests, Deputy Commissioner Stege said.

There were three raids, personally conducted by the deputy commissioner. He announced after hours spent questioning his prisoners that confessions had been made clearing crimes ranging from robbery to murder.

Among crimes in which the commissioner said he had confessions were:

The slaying of Maurice Younglove, private watchman, during a holdup September 8.

The shooting and serious wounding of two policemen and the slaying of John Pecora at the Turkish Village cafe September 21.

The daylight holdup of the Davis Hotel September 9.

The $6,870 payroll robbery of the Herald and Examiner July 28.

The attempted payroll robbery at the Chicago Tribune July 30.

Police said that most of their prisoners were members of one big gang that practiced crime in all its branches. "Big Leo" Trimiloff, sometimes called "Big Pack," is being sought as the leader.

Charles Stanley, 26, one of the men arrested, was the most talkative, the commissioner said. After questioning Stanley and others, police declared Stanley was present at the slaying of Younglove and had a hand in the Herald and Examiner robbery. He previously had been arrested for participation in the attempted Tribune robbery.

A battery of police stenographers was kept busy throughout the night, taking statements of those arrested.

"They're telling on each other," was Commissioner Stege's comment.

Stege said Stanley had been identified as one of the men who held up a Lafayette (Ind.) bank November 1, 1927, fatally wounding a policeman. Stanley, however, would not talk of that robbery.

"Let's stick to the Chicago stuff," Stege quoted the prisoner as saying.

N. Y. AND N. J. BREAK RECORDS FOR BUS FARES

ator of busses. At present it has 1,500 busses. These haul 400,000,000 passengers a year. This is equivalent to nearly four rides for every person in the United States. The wide range of the territory covered has made the establishment of zones necessary. A 5-cent fare is charged within each zone.

LUXURY SPREADS

In all the cities visited in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph survey of bus operations a tendency to provide greater comfort has been noticed in the newed equipment. Even in the cities where bus transportation is on a mass basis, luxurious accommodations are becoming prevalent.

In Detroit many of the busses have individual leather seats which are exact duplicates of those in Pittsburgh.

In Milwaukee, Philadelphia and on the newer busses in New York the seats are equally comfortable.

Where single busses are used in all cities they are invariably equipped with pneumatic tires. Luxurious busses are an actuality in many cities at a 10-cent fare.

When A. W. Robertson, president of the Philadelphia Company and of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company was given an opportunity to explain this city's 25-cent bus fare he gave the following reasons:

1.—Pittsburgh's hills. But heavier grades have been found in other cities with a 10-cent fare.

2.—Luxurious service. But equally comfortable busses and some identical busses have been found in 10-cent lines.

3.—Great length of routes. But longer routes have been found and in many cities the average route has been longer than the greatest distance covered here.

4.—Busses here cannot change their load. That is, passengers ride the full length of the line, and seats can be sold only once on each trip. But New York is the only city which enjoys extensive change of loads.

5.—High rate of depreciation. But busses wear out as far in other cities. The Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company has been charging depreciation on an estimated life of four years. Companies in other cities charge depreciation on life estimates ranging from 6 to 10 years.

6.—Double-deck busses cannot be used here. But Milwaukee uses only single deck busses and in Detroit, Philadelphia and Chicago, part of the busses are of single deck types.

7.—Pittsburgh has no sight-seeing or pleasure riding business. New York has the greatest volume of this type of bus travel but finds that it has disadvantages since much of the equipment is idle during the winter months. The high rate of fare here probably acts to deter summer bus riding for pleasure.

TRANSFER, PLEASE

The survey has also shown that the high fare is not the only respect in which the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company is failing in its duty as a public carrier. In other cities where street cars and busses are jointly owned transfers between the lines are given. In many of the 10-cent bus cities a seat is guaranteed every passenger. Here the rush hour traveler has the privilege of standing on his luxurious feet.

(Mr. Robertson, the evidence shows that you were dodging the issue in your previous answer to this paper's attack on the 25-cent bus fare. But the columns of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph are still open to anything further which you may wish to say.)

VERONA FIRED AS MAGISTRATE

time owner, Jakey Klein. Police were unable to state whether Klein has any connection with the "joint" at this time. His name was not mentioned in connection with the raid, James Thompson, 37, being arrested as the proprietor. He was fined $100 by Magistrate John Orie in Central Police Court yesterday.

FORTY-TWO TRAPPED

The report of the raid states that the 42 men found in the place were engaged in games of chance when police entered. No gambling charge was placed against Thompson, who was assessed his fine for keeping a disorderly house. Not one of the 42 visitors appeared for a hearing, each forfeiting the $15 he had posted for liberty.

Although Verona then still was a magistrate at the Center Avenue Police Court he had little chance to use his power yesterday when most of the important cases were taken to Morals Court, and he was left to dispose of a few petty offenders. Inspector James Hoey made six raids Saturday night and Sunday morning and in five of them women were arrested. The arrests automatically brought them into Morals Court. The other raid which could have been heard by Verona was shifted to Morals Court, leaving Verona to take care of a scattering of "disorderlies" and "drunks."

David Leff, charged with keeping a booze joint at 1408 Clark street, raided by Hoey's squad Saturday night, was fined $100 and costs in Morals Court yesterday, instead of getting a hearing in Center Avenue Police Station.

It was last Thursday when Verona flung his serious charges into the face of Mayor Kline, whom he dared to fire him. It was rumored the Mayor then had asked for Verona's resignation and this brought the "explosion" from the magistrate.

HOOVER SPURNS SLAMS TO PUSH ISSUES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Resolutely ignoring all open and undercover attacks upon him, Herbert Hoover is pursuing his course of conducting a campaign in favor of the issues and the candidates of the Republican party and keeping clear of distracting controversies.

His determination in this respect was given public expression again Saturday in a short talk to former service men who called on him here and was reiterated yesterday to his intimates in connection with an attack made upon him by Senator Bruce, Democrat, Maryland, who charged hypocrisy in connection with the nominee's declaration for constitutional prohibition.

DRINK CHARGE REFUTED

Before the Bruce charge had been called to the attention of the Republican presidential nominee, his secretary, George Akerson, had denied it, declaring that not only had Hoover never taken a drink with Clarence Darrow, as the Maryland Senator averred, but had not "taken a single drink of intoxicating liquor since he became a constitutional executive officer of the United States and has never had a drop of liquor served at his home."

Darrow, at his home in Chicago, added his denial, and it was indicated that the matter would rest there so far as Hoover headquarters is concerned. Detailed information has been received at these headquarters of various undercover attacks on Hoover, but these have been ignored.

Woman Shoots Self

She is in the Allegheny General Hospital with a bullet wound below the heart. The husband, John J. Werling, 45, employed at the Baltimore and Ohio shops, Glenwood, told hospital authorities that his wife had suffered from asthma for a long time.

JAPANESE ADMITS HE SLEW RANSOMED BOY

International News Service.

HONOLULU, T. H., Sept. 24.—Seated in the office of the warden of the Oahu prison here while a threatening crowd of infuriated citizens gathered without, 22-year-old Yutaka Fakunaga, Japanese, confessed kidnaper and slayer of 10-year-old Gill Jameison, son of an official of the Honolulu Trust Company today, with Oriental stoicism narrated the details of a ghastly crime that held Hawaii agog for over a week.

"You see, I studied the Hickman and Leopold cases," said the youthful Japanese, "so I didn't expect to make the mistakes they made. I planned to get $10,000 and then depart for San Francisco, where I expected to obtain employment.

STUDIED CRIME

Fukunaga explained to the police how he had made a careful study of Hickman's deeds and the circumstances of the crime for which Loeb and Leopold were sentenced to life imprisonment. According to the Japanese's alleged confession, it was not his original plan to murder the Jamieson boy, but after a desperate fight, in which the 10-year-old boy almost overpowered his captor, the kidnaper slugged the boy over the head, knocking him unconscious, and then strangled him.

The slayer then buried the body on the banks of a canal near the Royal Hawaiian Hotel where it was discovered last Thursday. A rude cross made of twigs tied together with strings marked the shallow grave.

Leaning back in his chair, Fukunaga, nonchalantly told authorities how, after the slaying, he had gone to his room and had written the ransom letter to the lad's father, Frederick Jamieson, demanding $10,000. Fearing harm might befall his child the father did not notify the police but met the kidnaper and paid his $4,000.

Questioned as to the reason why he murdered the boy, Fukunaga is reported to have said "kidnaping never works unless you do."

Mafia Plot 'Key Man' Held

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Acting on an anonymous tip, Chicago police today swooped down on the Italian Ghetto here and arrested Pasquale Capotosto, said by authorities to be the "key man" in the $60,000 Ranieri kidnaping plot that for more than two weeks threw Chicago citizens into an uproar.

The arrest came after a series of swift developments in the drive to smash the Mafia extortion ring, which has in the past two months directed plots against more than 200 Italian citizens and collected money from at last 50 of them.

According to Lieut. Paul Riccio, Italian ace of detectives, who captured Capotosto, the prisoner is the "penman" of the gigantic extortion ring which has Chicago for its base of operations.

Authorities are prepared to obtain indictments against six members of the Mafisti, they declared, as a result of evidence now in their hands.

IDENTIFIED

Four prominent Italian contractors here, said Assistant States Attorney Samuel Hoffman, have identified Capotosto as a member of the gang that tried to collect tribute from them. Capotosto, police say, has written 225 extortion letters in the past two months. To the testimony of victims who identified him was added that of handwriting experts.

After being questioned all day Capotosto admitted that he knew Angelo Pettiti, who is under arrest and accused by authorities as being the leader of the Sicilian extortion ring. Both, police learned, are from the same town in Italy.

Aid of the Italian consul here was requested today in the prosecution of the ring. It is hoped he may be able to influence other victims to come forward. Evidence already in hand, however, will be sufficient to obtain convictions in the Ranieri case, according to Mr. Hoffman.

JURY EVILS CURBED BY JUDGE

Important reforms in the administration of the Criminal Courts of Allegheny county, designed to correct abuses and to prevent jury tampring, or collusion between attorneys for defendants and representatives of the courts, have been put into effect by Judge James B. Drew.

Since becoming presiding judge of the Criminal Courts with the September term, Judge Drew has launched a number of reforms and it is understood that others are in prospect. The changes have been put into effect quietly and their existence has come recently to the notice of attorneys and persons connected with criminal trials.

HITS TAMPERING

It is reported that Judge Drew has expressed strong opinions in the past in condemnation of abuses of practice and tampering with jurors. It is his purpose, according to the well-informed, to prevent any persons talking with jurors in the courtrooms, corridors of the Courthouse or outside the building.

Judge Drew has initiated a system whereby each assistant district attorney now selects his own jury for each trial. It is termed a rotating system. Immediately after the selection the case is taken to the first vacant courtroom. In the past juries were frequently selected for the prosecuting attorneys and then sent to a courtroom in which the assistant district attorneys remained for succeeding trials. The selection of the jury and the method of assigning juries and cases was not in the hands of the prosecuting attorneys.

PARK IN CHARGE

First Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park has been placed by Judge Drew in charge of the new system. It is known that Park, with the support of District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, has favored the institution of reforms for some time past.

The reforms thus far have generally shaken the old system. For instance, a change in the receptacle from which jurors' names are drawn was ordered by Judge Drew. The new receptacle gives greater protection to the selection of names.

The changes have also speeded up trials. Judge Drew inaugurated a plea day for each Friday. Persons charged with crimes are required on that day to enter a plea of guilty or not guilty. If it is guilty, the case is disposed of during the following week. Otherwise the charge is submitted to the grand jury and in the event of a true bill it is listed promptly for trial.

Judge Drew has also ordered that bonds shall be forfeited immediately if a defendant has not appeared in court by 9:30 o'clock on the morning the case is listed for trial.

175-POUND PLANE MOTOR LACKS CARBURETOR, VALVES

HOUSTON, TEX., Sept. 24.—(AP.)—A successful demonstration of an airplane motor based upon a new internal combustion, two-cycle principle, is announced here by its inventors. The test was performed before a group of aviators and newspapermen.

A four-cylinder model on a steel tripod and with a regulation air screw was displayed. At its highest speed it turned at 1,300 revolutions a minute, developing between 80 and 90 horsepower.

The inventors, H. S. Lyons and Victor Toce, told spectators that the company was amply financed, and that they had filed 16 claims for basic patents.

The new engine has 13 working parts, weighs 175 pounds, consumes between five and six gallons of gasoline an hour, displaces 196 cubic inches, requires no preliminary warming up, functions either upright or upside down without loss of gasoline or oil, has no valves, no carburetor, no camshafts, no tappets, no valve springs, no rocking arms, and is air cooled, witnesses to the demonstration said.

Gas is fed into the cylinders by pressure, first entering a turbulator, where it is broken up into a gas spray and mixed with air.

PROBE CRUELTY, FIND STILL

Police investigating the treatment which John and Stella Lange, of Pius street, accorded their son, Anthony, 11, uncovered a 10-gallon still, they testified in Morals Court. Today the parents were held for court charged with violating the Snyder act and cruelty. Neighbors complained that the boy had been beaten frequently and often locked out of the house at night.

Looters Fire Bank, Escape

PLEASANTVILLE, Pa., 24 — (AP.) — Bank robbers blew the safe in the Citizens National Bank of Pleasantville early today, set fire to the building and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash.

The interior of the structure was badly damaged. Bank officials said the safe contained $7,000 in cash. They could not determine the loss until the safe is taken from the debris.

The robbers were believed to have arrived here by automobile. They gained entrance to the bank building through a back door. An empty gasoline container in the rear yard led authorities to believe that the robbers, after blowing the safe, saturated the banking rooms with the fuel and ignited it. A workman, en route to work at 6 a. m., discovered the blaze and summoned the Titusville fire department.

2 GO ON TRIAL IN MURDER

Two Negroes went on trial this morning in Criminal Court charged with the murder of Frank Fisher, 50, of 1133 North St. Clair street. They pleaded not guilty.

They are Edward Kelson and David Roy, both of 7 Shomin street. Fisher died in the Mercy Hospital last January 8 of a fractured skull, suffered in a holdup at Epiphany and Townsend streets.

Two alleged companions of Kelson and Roy, Arthur Coney and Edward Davis, both white, will go on trial next week.

Bride-to-Be Hacked to Death

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Her head hacked and battered with a hatchet, Mrs. Katherine Clark, 36, of Boston, Mass., was found dead at Foothills, 15 miles from Spokane late yesterday.

The woman had been dragged some distance to a spring, blood stains disclosed. A hatchet was found near the body.

County Prosecutor Greenough said he had learned that Mrs. Clark, who was divorced in 1925 at Watertown, Mass., arrived in Spokane last Friday in response to correspondence concerning marriage.

She went to stay at the residence of Archie F. Moock, a mill worker, who is held for questioning. Moock was said to have driven the woman in the direction of Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, Saturday to meet her intended husband, the prosecutor said.

Greenough expressed the opinion that robbery was the motive for the killing.

Wrecked by Calf, Help Withheld, Boy May Die

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 24.—A small calf which jumped from a bank of the Waynesburg-Washington highway, near Amity, caused an automobile accident yesterday which may cost the lives of two young men. Two others were slightly hurt.

Sidney Waychoff, Waynesburg College freshman and son of Attorney and Mrs. Roy J. Waychoff, of Waynesburg, and Ralph Digemnre, 25, of East Riverside, Pa., are in the Greene County Memorial Hospital here, both in a serious condition.

Digemnre swerved his car to the side of the road and crashed into a culvert abuttment in order to avoid hitting the calf.

Joseph Digemnre, 50, father of one youth, and Frank Rock, 47, of Eddy, Pa., escaped serious injury.

Doctors fear for Waychoff's recovery on account of excessive loss of blood, unnecessarily heavy, his companions state, because passing motorists refused to stop.

SMITH TO ASSAIL G. O. P. OIL SCANDALS

International News Service.

CASPER, Wyo., Sept. 24., En Route With Gov. Smith to Helena, Mont.—Gov. Smith invaded the northwest territory today, definitely on the offensive.

The defensive phase of his campaign is behind him at the end of his first week on the road. From now on until the sixth of November the Democratic nominee's campaign is to be a slashing aggressive attack on the opposition with which will be coupled a clear exposition of his own ideas on the issues.

Tonight in the capital of Montana, a state which the Democrats appear very confident of carrying this year, Gov. Smith will tear into the record of the Harding-Coolidge administration of the last eight years with particular reference to the oil and other scandals.

His theme will be "Party Responsibility," a phrase appropriated from a statement made by his Republican opponent in Washington last week. The burden of his speech will be that political parties are responsible for their acts when in control of the machinery of government, and that such being the case, Mr. Hoover must bear his share of responsibility for the eight years' record, the more so because he was a cabinet officer in the two administrations.

Today marked the end of the first week of Gov. Smith's active campaign for the presidency. It found him confident, pleased with his receptions in the West, and well satisfied with the general outlook.

NO WYOMING SPEECHES

Gov. Smith made no speeches in Wyoming yesterday as his train traveled for hours across the rolling mesa. He made several stops, notably at Cheyenne and at Casper, but in neither place did he attempt a speech. The crowds were enormous for Wyoming.

Senator B. K. Wheeler joined the Smith train soon after it crossed the Montana line, and Senator Thomas J. Walsh, the noted oil scandals prosecutor, will appear with him on the latter half of his journey through the state.

Montana is one of the few western states where the Democratic nominee's wetness is accounted no handicap. The great mining centers are notoriously wet. The wets also carried the state two years ago on a referendum as to whether the Volstead act should be repealed.

Gov. Smith's schedule in Montana is so arranged that he will spend two days in the state. He speaks in Helena tonight and remains overnight. Tomorrow he will leave the capital at 10 a. m., arriving in Butte at 1 p. m., for an hour's stay. Bozeman and Livingston are other scheduled stops, and then Gov. Smith turns eastward through North Dakota, en route to Minneapolis and Milwaukee, the terminus of the present western tour.

The subjects which Gov. Smith will deal with in his Minneapolis and Milwaukee addresses have not been announced, but it is thought probable that in Milwaukee he will deal with prohibition.

NOW'S TIME---WRITE YOUR AD

ZAIN TEST OFFERS ALL CHANCE TO WIN $1,000

language that I need to write one of those big, high-sounding announcements that the stores put in the papers. I don't know the styles of type and the other things that enter into the making of ads."

You don't have to know them. It's the idea that counts most in this ad test. What you send in may not look like an ad at all. It may be in the form of a letter, or a statement of just a few words, or a jingle, or a slogan. And yet it may win the $1,000 prize for you.

JUST HORSE SENSE

The thing that must be emphasized more than anything else is that it is not training or experience, but intelligence or inspiration that will take the big money. And an unskilled laborer of very limited education is just as likely to have intelligence—and by that is meant just plain horse sense—as a person with a dozen college degrees. He is just as likely to have a lucky inspiration, too.

To show you that all have the same chance—that the man that digs ditches for a living or the woman that scrubs office floors has just as splendid an opportunity to win the $1,000 as a learned judge or a brilliant business or professional woman—we will consider for a moment the purpose of the test.

THE REASONS

You are to write your ads about certain specified business concerns whose names you will find on this page of the Sun-Telegraph today. They want to know what there is in their products and their stores that makes the strongest appeal to the public. They assume that in writing ads about them you will set forth what in them makes the strongest appeal to you personally. In that way they will find out how the public regards them, and what the public likes best, and so their ad writers will be better prepared to write powerful, pulling ads hereafter.

Now, suppose you decide to write an ad about a bakery. You don't have to be a doctor of philosophy to know good bread or a good bakery. The lowest paid manual laborer knows just as well as, or perhaps even better, than the most eminent college professor, what most appeals to people in bread and in a bakery. And if he uses that knowledge in an ad—if he just sets forth simply, clearly and truthfully the things that will make people like that bakery's bread and buy it—his ad may be much, much better than the professor's. It will sell more bread for the bakery, and that's the thing that makes an ad valuable.

ALL EQUAL

Catch the point? Don't you see that lack of education is no great handicap in the Zain Ad-Test, and that the bricklayer, the actress, the minister, the servant girl, the truck driver, the architect, the saleswoman, the plumber and the bookkeeper are all on the same footing and have the same opportunity? YOU HAVE AS GOOD A CHANCE AS ANYBODY.

Now get busy. Write ads today about the firms in the list with which you are familiar and get acquainted with the others. You will find in the Sun-Telegraph today the names, addresses and something about the products of all the concerns with which your advertisements are to deal. They will be glad to furnish information that will be helpful to you in writing the ads. Study their goods, learn their fine points, post yourself on the things that have pulling power; and then, if you have no plan that strikes you as being better, just put these selling points down on paper as you might in a letter to a friend recommending the store or the goods in question.

You will find all the rules for the Zain Ad-Test on this page of the Sun-Telegraph today. They are simple and easily remembered. One of the most important is this:

WRITE EACH AD ON ONE SIDE OF PAPER, AND PUT YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS ON THE BACK.

The length of the ads is left to your own judgment. Send them to the Zain Ad-Writing Test, care of The Sun-Telegraph.

A SELF HELP

You are going to get a lot of entertainment from writing ads for the Zain Ad-Test, and are going to learn something in the bargain. You are going to express yourself in a way that will make folks sit up and take notice, and that will be helpful to you in writing letters and in other things.

Have you ever stopped to think, by the way, that ads are a good deal like letters? They are messages from the stores, and letters are messages, too.

The Zain Ad-Test is really an interesting game, and that is how you are to think of it. It can be played very successfully at parties. When you are tired of bridge and the radio get the guests to write Zain-Sun-Telegraph ads and compare them. See which shows the greatest ingenuity. Take a vote among yourselves as to which of the ads you think are most worthy of the prizes. They will all enjoy it.

Each week, for six weeks, more than 195 valuable prizes will be given. Five prizes will be given each week for the five best ads written on each one of the concerns co-operating in the campaign.

A cash prize of $100 will be awarded each week for the best ad submitted that week.

And a cash prize of $1,000 will go to the best ad written during the campaign.

So you see there are many opportunities to capture prizes. If you fail one period you have other chances the following periods. The greater the number of periods you try the greater your opportunities of success. So do not delay, but get into the game right now.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 24.—Sought by teachers and students of the Washington Seminary for half a day, Miss Huldah A. Haenig, 45, who came here from Lincoln, Neb., Saturday as an instructor, was found crushed to death at the bottom of a freight elevator shaft in the dormitory building.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure area that covered the plains states Saturday and Sunday, is now central over the lower Ohio Valley and the adjacent Mississippi Valley states, and covers practically the entire eastern half of the country. It diminished considerably in pressure, but it caused a further drop in temperature over the entire East, with light to heavy frost over all the Ohio Valley states as far south as Cairo and Nashville. Another high is moving down from Alberta, Canada into the northern plains. It is causing freezing temperatures and below over the Canadian provinces, and over Montana, North Dakota, and Minnesota.

Low barometer is centered north of Lake Superior. It is producing cloudy weather and light scattered rains over the entire Lake Region. There is also a disturbance over the Gulf of Mexico, which is causing heavy rains along the coast from New Orleans to Florida.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary or falling. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.2 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.2; and Dam No. 6, 7.0 feet. The dams are up.

RUN-DOWN WOMEN REGAIN STRENGTH

Find Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound A Dependable Medicine

MRS. HELEN SEDIVI
4939 National St., Tacony, Phila., Pa.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I really can't express in writing how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. After my second baby was born I was always tired. I read so much of what the Vegetable Compound has done for others that I gave it a trial. It has certainly done wonders for me. I have praised it to single and to married women and intend to continue it. It seems that taking your medicine has made me a different girl. I also secured Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation and they have helped me wonderfully."—Mrs. Helen Sedivi, 4939 National Street, Tacony, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Weak, Nervous Woman Helped

Terre Haute, Ind.—"I have a baby six months old and after he was born I felt so badly I could hardly do my work. I was weak, nervous and run-down. I have taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and would not be without it. I feel lots better and am able to do my housework. I also take Lydia E. Pinkham's Pills for Constipation. I would like you to print this letter in some of the papers for I have often heard remarks about your testimonials. They say, 'You never see letters from anyone in this city. It is always somewhere else.'"—Mrs. J. K. Monce, 1801 Blaine Avenue, Terre Haute, Indiana.

WILKINSBURG PASTOR OPPOSED

Strong opposition to the reassignment of the Rev. Dr. Sheridan W. Bell, reputed modernist, to the pulpit of the South Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg, has developed within the church as a result of the Callender Bible class controversy, it was learned today, and members of the board.

Hundreds of members of the congregation are said to have signed petitions yesterday asking the annual session of the Pittsburgh Methodist Episcopal Conference, scheduled to open October 3 in the First Methodist Episcopal Church of McKeesport, not to return Dr. Bell to the pastorate of the Wilkinsburg church. The petitions were to be sent to Bishop Herbert Welch, successor to Bishop Francis J. McConnell, who has been trying to settle the Callender class difficulty.

A final decision as to whether the Bible class will be barred from the church is expected to be reached by next Sunday. The class numbers about 200 business men and youths, all of whom apparently are united in support of Dr. Morton T. Sankey, Wilkinsburg physician, a Fundamentalist, who is said to have split with Dr. Bell over the latter's so-called modernistic tendencies.

Dr. Sankey has been teaching and has continued at the request of the class despite Dr. Bell's wish to place himself at the head of the group. Members of the Bible class, almost to a man, it is said, prefer Dr. Sankey's fundamentalist views over their pastor's modernistic doctrines.

Whether the board's resolution will be carried out depends upon a conference planned this week between representatives of the class and members of the board.

FLEEING YEGGS ESCAPE POLICE IN CHASE

Three safe crackers who made an unsuccessful attempt to open a safe in the Browning-King Company store, at 3601 Forbes street, early yesterday, outstripped police who gave chase after seeing the robbers leave an adjoining store. The burglars leaped into an automobile which the officers lost in the Hill district.

The combination knob of the safe had been knocked off by the crackmen, who had entered by a second story window.

Max Negley, of 803 East Ohio street, reported to North Side police that he had been held up by three men in Concord street early yesterday and robbed of two diamond rings valued at $300, a $50 watch and $30 in cash.

A case of dental instruments and two bags containing wearing apparel valued at $300 were stolen from the automobile of John Harrington, of 3515 Forbes street, while the car was parked at Bigelow boulevard and Forbes street last night.

Jimmying a side window of the Kirkwood Hotel, Kirkwood and Whitfield streets, early Sunday, thieves entered the office and stole $160 from a cash drawer.

The apartment of Henrietta Harnhauser, 5175 Woodlawn avenue, was ransacked and clothing and jewelry valued at $200 stolen last night.

BIG $9,000,000 POWER PLANT PLANNED HERE

The Duquesne Light Company is planning to build a new $9,000,000 power plant on Brunot's Island in the Ohio River, to be completed in less than two years. The first unit of the new plant will have a capacity of 60,000 kilowatts.

Plans are well under way for the new project, A. W. Robertson, president of the company, announced today. The new plant is to be erected at the upper end of the island, nearest the downtown section, on a site opposite the present power plant.

Officials of several public utility companies were in conference here about two weeks ago and it is believed that this project was one of the subjects discussed by the officers. E. M. Herr, president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, was present at several of the meetings.

Mr. Robertson said the officials felt that the increasing demand for electric current would justify the expansion by 1930, when the plant is to be completed.

RUSSIANS, ZIEGFELD SINGER, ON AIR

KIRILLOFF'S BALALAIKA ORCHESTRA and the Russian Singers will again be featured in a program of Russian folk-songs in the General Motors Family Party to be broadcast through WCAE at 9 o'clock tonight. Frigidaire, the host, also will present a novelty orchestra under the direction of Joe Green, and the General Motors Players in an appropriate sketch, "Catherine the Great."

Green's novelty orchestra opens the program with the "Cossack Love Song" from George Gershwin's "The Song of the Flame." The same group will be heard later in the hour with a special arrangement of "Echoes from the Volga." The Balalaika orchestra and Russian singers present a group of native melodies, and join with Green's instrumentalists for a grand finale of the Russian Air "Bright Shining Moon."

ZIEGFELD SINGER ON KDKA

Mildred Hunt, who croons sweet melodies, formerly a member of the Ziegfeld Follies, will be heard with Roxy's Gang over KDKA at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Miss Hunt was born in Wilkes-Barré, and educated in Kingston, N. Y. Although she had no training in voice culture, she had no difficulty in obtaining a part in the Follies, upon her arrival in New York City, and later toured in vaudeville. She has made phonograph records with Paul Whiteman and his orchestra, and in the two years in which she has been appearing in radio programs her popularity has grown rapidly. Other vocal and instrumental soloists will be heard during this program, and also selections by the symphony orchestra and the mixed chorus.

The Ceco Couriers, who brought their first musical message to the radio audience of WJAS last week, are to be heard again tonight at 8 o'clock. On this occasion the program will open with the Ceco theme song, following which the Soldiers Chorus from Gounod's "Faust" will be rendered by the male quartet with orchestral accompaniment. Two favorite Scotch numbers are featured in this concert—"Annie Laurie," sung by a mixed quartet, and a string quartet rendition of "Loch Lomond." The Ceco Couriers will bring the concert to a close with the "Broad Highway," from Victor Herbert's "The Dream Girl."

ALL AMERICAN PROGRAM

The second program of the Lowney Radio series also will be broadcast by WJAS at 9 o'clock, under the direction of Jack Shilkret, with Miss Ruth Manning, soprano, as soloist. The compositions to be heard in this program were either written by American composers, or are on American themes, or native songs of lands located so close to the American continent that they are considered wholly American. The opening selection, while written by an Englishman, Myddleton, is a medley of tunes of the South. It will be played by the Lowney Salon Orchestra. Westell Gordon's "No One Knows But the Red Rose" is to be offered as a soprano solo with orchestral accompaniment. Among the instrumental solos are to be found the "Dance of the Toy Regiment," a Shilkret-Green composition, to be played as an xylophone solo, and "My Wild Irish Rose," offered as a violin solo.

Marie Bonini Brown, soprano, is the local musical feature tonight at 7 p. m. on WCAE. Gertrude Mohr will assist at the piano. Miss Brown's program will consist of Puccini's "Vissi D'arts," "Song of India," by Korsakoff; "Elegie," by Massenett; "The Sea," by Grant-Schaeffer; "Sunset," by Russell; "Eros," by Kursteiner; "Songs My Mother Taught Me," by Dvorak, and in conclusion the selection, "Good-bye," by Tosti.

FAMILIAR AIRS

Following the sound of the Telechron time gong at 7 o'clock this evening the One Minute Demonstrators will step before the microphone at KDKA to entertain for a period of 30 minutes, their unseen guests with a program of tunes that are familiar to most of their listeners. The quaret opens the program with the selection "Blueberry Lane." During the 30 minutes of music, Eugene Baldridge, tenor of the quaret, will sing "Nocturne." Another feature of the program will be a duet arrangement of the selection "One Golden Hour with You," for tenor and baritone.

The Demonstrators' complete program is as follows: "Blueberry Lane," "Way Down South in Heaven," "Farewell to Thee," "Nocturne," "Golden Gate," "One Golden Hour with You," "Annie Laurie" and "Southern Skies."

In conjunction with the dance orchestra to be featured over KQV this evening, there will be a medley hour from 8 until 9 o'clock. The National Hawaiian Trio will furnish a number of entertaining Hawaiian and popular numbers. Along with the trio, Cecelia Namara, soprano, accompanied at the piano by Marcella Hopkins, will render a number of very pleasing solos. Then there will be Sylvester Flynn, lyric tenor, and Doc Cooper, tenor, who will make up the remainder of the program. Mr. Flynn will sing a suite of semi-classical and classical songs, while Doc Cooper will tend more to the late popular numbers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Chicago's fifty-ninth bombing of the year last night blew out the front of a three-story building, hurled a peanut roaster from the front through the building and into the rear alley, and rocked dwellings in the vicinity. SUN-TELEGRAPH COOK SCHOOL RECIPES

Here are the recipes that Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree, expert in home economics, demonstrated at the Soldiers' Memorial Hall last Wednesday in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Free Cooking School:

GINGER BREAD.

1 cup molasses
1 egg beaten
¼ cup melted shortening
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons ginger
2 cups flour
½ cup hot water
½ teaspoon soda

Mix shortening, water, molasses and eggs and add all the dry ingredients (including the soda) sifted together. Bake in square or oblong pan in a moderate oven 350 degrees for 40 or 45 minutes.

SAUCE FOR GINGER BREAD.

1 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons shortening
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg, cloves, cinnamon, mixed
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup cooking sherry or add one teaspoon vanilla and ¼ cup hot water in place of sherry
½ cup soaked chopped raisins or currants
1 teaspoon ground orange peel

Put the sugar, shortening and spices in a saucepan and allow them to come to boiling. If sherry is used, add the sherry at this point and boil for five minutes. Add the fruit a minute or two before the sauce comes off the stove. Serve hot on ginger bread.

MEAT LOAF.

1½ lb. ground round steak
½ green pepper chopped fine
1 cup tomato puree
1 small onion chopped fine
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon black pepper
Dash of curry powder
2 tablespoons flour

Mix ingredients and shape into loaf. Place in greased pan and cook fast until browned. Lower temperature to moderate. Pour one-third cup of water over meat and cook half hour longer. Serve surrounded with hot, seasoned rice over which has been poured a gravy made by putting a small amount of boiling water into the pan where the loaf was cooked, letting it boil a minute.

AFTER-DINNER JELLY MINTS.

2 level tablespoonfuls gelatine Green coloring
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoonfuls lemon juice
Few grains salt
½ teaspoonful peppermint extract

Soak gelatine in two-thirds cup cold water five minutes. Put sugar and two-thirds cup water in saucepan, bring to the boiling point, add soaked gelatine and let boil 20 minutes. Remove from fire, add remaining ingredients and color green. Turn into a pan (first rinsed in cold water) to one inch in thickness. When set, remove to board, cut in cubes and roll in powdered sugar.

SLAW—IN A SALAD BOWL THAT GROWS.

2 cups shredded cabbage.
1 teaspoon salt.
½ teaspoon mustard.
Dash cayenne.
1 tablespoon sugar.
1 egg.
¼ cup vinegar.
½ cup hot milk.
2 tablespoons shortening.
1 tablespoon flour.

Shred cabbage. Mix salt, mustard, flour, cayenne and sugar in double boiler. Add egg, hot milk, then shortening. Cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Remove from fire and slowly beat in vinegar. Strain and pour over cabbage. Chill. Serve in a bowl made of hollowed out head of cabbage.

SNOWBALLS.

2 eggs.
½ cup sugar.
1 cup sweet milk.
1 tablespoon shortening.
Pinch of salt.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
2½ cups flour.

Beat eggs until light. Add sugar, melted shortening, milk and vanilla. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Stir into first mixture. Drop by teaspoonfuls into hot fat. Fry like doughnuts. When cool dust with powdered sugar.

ORANGE CHARLOTTE.

½ cup cold water.
¾ cup boiling water.
1 cup sugar.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
1 cup orange juice and pulp.
Whites of three eggs.
Lady fingers.

Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes and dissolve in boiling water. Add sugar, and when dissolved add lemon juice. Strain, cool slightly and add orange juice and pulp and a little grated rind. When mixture begins to stiffen beat, using a wire whisk, until light; then add whites of eggs, beaten until stiff, and beat thoroughly. Turn into mold lined with lady fingers. One pint whipped cream may be used in place of white of eggs.

APPLE CHARLOTTE.

Make same as orange charlotte, using cooked apple pulp in place of orange juice and pulp.

HAM AND RAISIN SALAD.

½ cup puffed raisins.
1 tablespoon gelatine.
¼ cup cold water.
1 cup boiling water.
1 tablespoon vinegar.
½ teaspoon pepper.
Few grains paprika.
1 teaspoon table sauce.
1 cup cold cooked ham, cut in cubes.
1 cup celery cut in dice.
½ teaspoon salt.

Cover raisins with cold water and bring to boiling point. Boil five minutes, drain and chill. Soak gelatine in cold water and dissolve in boiling water. Add seasonings and chill. When mixture starts to stiffen stir in the puffed raisins and the cubes of ham. Turn into a cold, wet, square pan. When firm cut in cubes. Arrange on lettuce and sprinkle celery dice over the top. Garnish with mayonnaise dressing sprinkled with paprika.

MILLS WORKING NEAR CAPACITY

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 24.—The biggest news in northwestern Ohio is the high operating rate of iron and steel properties as the industry enters the last week of the third quarter.

Production will average 87 per cent, the highest for the year.

The Republic Iron and Steel Company has added another blast furnace at the Haselton plant while the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company has added a pipe mill.

Seamless tube mills are being operated double turn. Employment conditions are proportionately improved.

On the other side of the setting sun. Where pretty ladies wear butterfly costumes; and rainy days blossom with gay parasols; and precious carvings and jades, and embroideries still bear fairy-tale prices. Go the quickest and happiest way—from Vancouver or Victoria in luxurious White Empresses. 10 short, gay days to Yokohama, for as little as $300 First Class ($185 Second Class) with special train rates over there, and our agents to look after you. Ask about it.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Giants Deserve Much Credit for Great Fighting Spirit—Grimes May Lead All Major League Pitchers in Victories—West Virginia's Fate Shows Football to Be As Uncertain As Ever.

NO MATTER how the struggle ends you've got to hand it to the Giants for the fighting spirit they have shown in advancing again to within a single game of the leaders after backsets that would have stopped many a less courageous club.

Extra-inning battles like the one against the Reds yesterday and that with the Pirates last week, are the real test of a ball team, and the McGrawites and their pitchers surely proved their stuff in those pinches.

BILL McKECHNIE'S main task in the final week of the season, if his team is to hold its present slender margin of leadership and win the National League pennant, will be to keep his men attending strictly to their own games instead of looking back over their shoulders to see what the Giants are doing.

Bill McKechnie

A single lapse might prove fatal, whereas if the Cards can maintain the gait that they regained in Brooklyn yesterday after losing to the McGrawites on Saturday, they may be able to add another game to their lead by Saturday night and thus keep the pennant from hinging on next Sunday's final game in New York.

The Redbirds have the easier schedule and it behooves them to make the most of it, as they have won only eight games out of 21 played with the Giants this season and in view of this record the chances will hardly favor them if the race narrows down to the final game of the campaign next Sunday.

HAVING finally attained for the first time in his life the goal of 25 victories by beating the Phillies in the first game of Saturday's double-header, and being the first pitcher in the big show to reach that mark this season, Burleigh Grimes now has a chance to cop the distinction of winning more games than any other hurler in either major leagues for 1928.

Already a step ahead of Larry Benton, who has won 24 contests, and two strides in advance of Bob Grove and George Pipgras, who have won 23 each, Grimes probably will pitch two more games—one in Boston and the other in Brooklyn—and thus will have an opportunity of beating all of his rivals, even if each of them puts over two more victories in the same period.

WHILE much has been said and written about the feats of Jack Quinn, Grover Alexander and other veteran pitchers this year, the dopesters have been overlooking another remarkable old-timer in the person of Urban Faber of the White Sox. Faber has added one more chapter to his great record by winning 13 games and losing but eight, and only last Thursday he set the Yankees back a game in their pennant fight with the Athletics. Faber was 40 years old on September 6, but he still is far superior to many younger moundsmen in the fast set. Since he started with the Pale Hose in 1914 he has won 197 games against 131 defeats, and in only one season did he lose more decisions than he captured. That was in 1924, when he won 9 and lost 11. Urban would have been a Pirate during all those years but for a wrong steer given the local management. Pittsburgh drafted him from Dubuque in the fall of 1909, sent him back in 1910, tried him again in 1911, and farmed him out once more in 1911. He was not recalled for the reason that Frank Isbell, manager of the club to which he had been sent, expressed the opinion that he would not make a successful big league pitcher. Faber then drifted around from Minneapolis to Pueblo to Des Moines before the White Sox bought him for the 1914 season for only $3,500.

Red Faber

THOUGH only a few scattered football games were played last Saturday, preceding the general opening of the season at the end of this week, the brief card did not go through without leaving some striking evidence that the game's uncertainty of recent years is going to continue, and that the ancient baseball admonition of "take nothing for granted" may also be aptly applied to the gridiron sport.

West Virginia University's 7-to-0 defeat at the hands of Davis-Elkins was one of the biggest upsets to feature college football activities in this part of the pigskin map in a long time. On paper, the game had looked like the customary opening-day workout for the larger college, but it turned out as a huge surprise, with Davis-Elkins playing the better ball throughout.

THE Mountaineers were unable to make any material headway against the D. & E. line and were held to three first downs, all by the aerial route, whereas the visitors to Morgantown registered eight first downs by a varied attack and clearly outplayed their more highly-rated opponents.

Morley Drury

Of course, this opening reverse is not to be taken as an indication of W. V. U.'s best this year, and Coach Rogers' outfit may be expected to show greater strength as the season progresses, but at the same time there is a world of credit coming to the Davis-Elkins boys for their splendid achievement.

It indicates that the Navy, Quantico Marines, John Carroll, West Virginia Wesleyan, Villa Nova and other teams to be met by the Scarlet this fall are not in line for any picnics, and it is also a warning to big college teams in general not to count any games on the victory list until they have actually been won.

IF Pop Warner has the right dope, Pitt need not despair of finding another Gibby Welch sooner or later. The former Panther coach, who is now turning out winners at Stanford, expresses the belief that there is no football player so good that he cannot be replaced in time. He goes so far as to predict that Coach Howard Jones of Southern California will find some one capable of filling the shoes of even such a star as Morley Drury. In support of his argument, Warner points out that there was much gloom around Southern California when Morton Kaer, all-American end in 1926, was lost by graduation, but that the development of Drury the following season made the coaches, students and alumni of the same school forget all about Kaer.

NOW that it has been officially settled and announced from National League headquarters that Pittsburgh is to remain in big-time hockey for the 1928-29 season, at least, local

WESLEYAN SQUAD LOOKS GOOD

(This is the twelfth of a series of articles by Jess Carver dealing with the gridiron prospects of tri-state colleges. A review of the Bethany College eleven, with pictures of the Bison accompanying the articles, will appear in Wednesday's Sun-Telegraph.

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Sept. 24.—The job of twisting the tails of the West Virginia Wesleyan Bobcats this fall is going to a man-sized one. After spending a day and a half with the Cats and their keepers, the two Ross boys and George Seibert, watching them drill and prepare themselves for this year's campaign, it became evident that Wesleyan is headed for another of its rip-snorting football seasons.

There are several reasons that lead one to expect the Bobcats to "go to town" on the boys this year. In the first place, 22 of the 36 men on the squad are veterans, and 13 of them lettermen. Among the freshmen are a number who have shown class enough to warrant their being regarded as varsity starters, and will likely replace men who were more or less regulars in seasons past.

BOBCATS HIGHLY RATED

The Wesleyan schedule, which is always a representative one, is just a trifle lighter than the general and previous run of Bobcat programs have been. There are 11 games on the card, five of which are major ones.

Because the Cats annually meet some of the strongest elevens in the East, they are highly regarded as a football foe along the Atlantic seaboard. In fact, West Virginia Wesleyan holds a spot in the gridiron limelight that is the envy of institutions with greater enrollments and regarded as being better schools. The Cats usually meet the Army or the Navy, sometimes both, and they have played and defeated teams of the caliber of Syracuse and Boston College, when those schools had teams of championship caliber.

Coach Cebe Ross has selected in his mind some 25 men upon whom he is going to depend for first and second varsity teams this fall. The boys appear to be very evenly matched as far as class goes, with one or two perhaps standing out as extraordinarily good prospects.

WINGMEN STRONG

Five men, two of which are freshmen, have clinched the lead in the fight for the wing jobs. Newt Anderson, a frosh, looks like one of the best end prospects it has been Wesleyan's fortune to possess in years. Hagedon, a letterman, Battles, another freshman, who can also play in the backfield, and Noah Anderson and Watson are the other wingmen. Noah Anderson will not be able to get into action for a couple of weeks, due to a serious attack of poison ivy.

Capt. Bullington, despite a twisted knee, is the best tackle on the squad, and has proven his worth many times in the four years he has been here; Reemsnyder, Spatafore and Nutter, all lettermen, complete the remaining tackle squad.

Kopolus and Hurd, the latter a 220-pounder, who handles himself like lightning, are on top of the guard heap. Radera Junior, Pugh and Crites, the latter a freshman, are the center of the line replacements who will be called upon for action often by Ross.

Omer Young, a big 190-pound center, who has played here for three years, and is regarded as the best center in the state, is sure of the varsity pivot job. Applebaum, an Elwood City, Pa., boy, and Cundiff are fighting it out for the first string sub job.

A heady quarterback, Bachtel, and a veteran and hard hitting fullback, Rodriguez, who punts with his left foot and passes as accurately as any man I have seen this fall, together with the veteran halfback, McClung are the backfield men upon whom and around whom Coach Ross is planning and working out his offense.

Bachtel will be used regularly at quarter, McClung at half and the Spaniard, Rodriguez, at fullback, until injuries or some unheralded reserve man comes along and boots 'em out of their jobs.

BILLY ROCAP SUCCUMBS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—William (Billy) Rocap, died at his home in Merion, Pa., yesterday. He succumbed to fever, a complication of an attack of indigestion in which he was stricken in Atlantic City several months ago. Paralysis was also present in the latter stages of his illness. He was 67 years old.

At the time of his appointment as the first chairman of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission in 1923, he had been a sports writer for 33 years, specializing in boxing and polo. In his younger days he was a boxing enthusiast and held the state amateur featherweight championship from 1889 until 1892.

In 1890 he became amateur featherweight champion of America, when he defeated nine others in two nights in the Metropolitan opera house in New York. He defeated 22 men in defending his title and retired undefeated.

Rocap is survived by his widow and three children. Three children by a former marriage also survive.

FLAG RIVALS KEEP PACE WITH WINS

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—With pennant contenders operating on four distinct fronts, this adaptable correspondent submitted himself to the famous blindfold test today and shrewdly divined the following, after a brief but meditative silence: The Giants win the ball game. The Cardinals win the ball game. The Yankees win the ball game. The Athletics win the ball game.

Nothing gained, nothing lost would seem to be the correct rejoinder, here, but the man who makes it will be wrong on both counts. The Yanks still are two games ahead of the Athletics in the American League and the Cardinals retain their one-game jump on the Giants in the National, but, with the major league season ending on Sunday next, days count almost as much as games at this particular moment. The Cards and Yanks gained a full day and the Giants and Athletics lost exactly that by reason of yesterday's stand-off in both leagues.

The Cards' defeat of Petty yesterday was heartening to their immediate prospects, since it isn't likely that they will have to do business with the star left-hander again in this series.

The Giants got a break, too, in beating Luque yesterday. He went 14 innings in order to lose, which means he won't be back.

The Yankees beat the Indians and the Athletics downed the Browns yesterday, and they figure to repeat today.

The following table shows the situation in both major league baseball races:

TEE to GREEN by VERN SWARTSFAGER

THE Hotel Club and Restaurant Golf Association is playing the first 18-hole round of its 36-hole club championship at the Alcoma Country Club today. The last 18-hole trek will be run off at Edgewood several weeks hence.

Carl Kaufmann, national public links champion, decided at the last minute to defend his city crown in the championship which begins on the Schenley municipal links tomorrow. The Schenley course is in poor shape for any kind of a tourney and any one may win as a result; it's a gamble.

Herman F. Ruoff, lawyer de luxe, and St. Clair County Club official, joined the Hole-in-One Club yesterday when he lost his mashie-iron shot on the cup on the 172-yard fourth hole there. He won't contest that case.

The annual city-county golf match will be played at Schenley Thursday. Rules used last year will govern play in the city title tourney, according to John Jay Bourke.

Amateur golfers appear to have misunderstood an announcement made last week regarding the Cambridge Springs tourneys. The amateur event, which begins at Riverside tomorrow, has not been called off, but the open pro-tourney has been changed from today and tomorrow to October 8 and 9. This will answer several queries.

VIN RICHARDS LOSES

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(INS.)—Karel Kozeluh, diminutive Czecho-Slovakian, rated by many experts as the world's greatest lawn tennis player, is a strong favorite to win the national professional championship tournament which starts at Forest Hills today. He defeated Vincent Richards, former American Davis Cup player and present professional champion of the United States, for the third straight time here yesterday. The score was 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

INDIANAPOLIS, ROCHESTER COP

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Indianapolis won the American Association pennant for 1928 by defeating Toledo, 1 to 0, in the twelfth inning of the first game of a double-header here yesterday.

It was the first pennant an Indianapolis club has won in the Association since 1917. Indianapolis will play Rochester in a series for the little world's championship beginning next Wednesday. Indianapolis previously had won a pennant in 1908.

The second game was called in the fourth inning.

ROCHESTER VICTOR

MONTREAL, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Rochester clinched its first International League pennant since 1911 by defeating Montreal in both games of a double-header here yesterday by scores of 5 to 2 and 6 to 0.

Rochester's last previous pennant was won 17 years ago when John Ganzel led the team, then called "The Hustlers" to a third straight flag.

He used a No. 5 iron to carry the pellet the distance of 130 yards. G. E. Moyer, Dr. H. B. Anderson and G. A. Ikeuff were playing with Offutt at the time.

PIRATES OUT OF TITLE RACE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—The Pirates were dethroned as National League champions and entirely out of all flag reckoning today as they made ready to begin the last week of competition. With only seven games remaining on their playing card, the Buccos now have not even a mathematical chance to win the honors in the senior circuit, as the Red Birds, on top of their victory of yesterday, have a lead of seven and one-half games.

Even though they are all washed up on the Pennant race, the Freebooters will take on the Braves in a doubleheader here this afternoon. Single games are scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday, after which the Buccos will head for Brooklyn to wind up the season.

HILL, KREMER ON MOUND

Carmen Hill and Remy Kremer are due to face the Tribe in the twin bill. Hill is a sure shot, but Kremer has been ailing with a sore arm and it may be that he will not be able to take his turn.

The Buccos have visions of finishing in third place inasmuch as they have climbed to within two and one-half games of the Cubs. The handicap, nevertheless, is quite severe in view of the close approach to the final contest.

The Bushwhackers didn't do so well in New York in the beginning of their last Eastern invasion. They won the first clash with the men of McGraw, but the Giants grabbed the next two. Reaching the City of Brotherly Love the Pirates found their batting eyes and were able to pound over sufficient tallies to win all four contests with the Quakers. That means that the Oaklanders have copped five out of the seven games played to date.

An interesting sidelight on the impending clashes here is the duel being staged for batting supremacy of the league by the local pilot and Paul Waner. Hornsby has the bulge on Waner at the present, but Paul has not despaired of winning the crown for the second year in succession.

LOSE EXHIBITION

CHILLY SAUCE By CHILLY DOYLE

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—The extraordinary aggressiveness of the Giants is reflected in their ability to win extra-inning tilts. They have won several of these fights recently. They seem to have the worst of the schedule inasmuch as they must fight it out to the finish with the Reds, Cubs and Cardinals, but there is no telling what they will accomplish.

The Cardinals apparently are fighting just as hard as the Giants. Skipper Bill and his athletes will move to this city after finishing with the Dodgers. They are due to close the season Sunday in a single fight with the men of McGraw. It would be extremely interesting if the flag were not decided when Sunday comes. In the event of a tie between the Giants and Cardinals a playoff would be arranged to decide the honor. St. Louis is leading by one game at present.

Meantime the Athletics are trying hard to overtake the Yankees who still retain a two-game lead. The way of the Mackians is strewn with rocks and other handicaps, a two-game advantage at this point of play being an extensive advantage.

The Pirates were tickled to learn that the Indianapolis club is the winner of the American Association flag. Donie Bush's home is in Indianapolis and Bush was pilot of the Hoosiers for three seasons. Adam Comorosky and Ervin Brame, now Pirate stars, helped to put the club on top, while Emil Yde, Roy Spencer and Steve Swetonic are members of the club, as is Herman Layne, another former Pirate.

Pittsburgh fans will hail with delight the winning of the International League flag by Rochester, for the reason that Billy Southworth, once a Pirate, is the pilot of the team.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SPORTS EDITOR

EVERY time a small college eleven hangs a shiner on a big brother it is a signal for the football public to register the action and emotion commonly known as standing aghast. That is what happened when Davis-Elkins of Elkins, W. Va., familiarly dubbed the Scarlet Hurricane, took Ira Rodgers' West Virginia Mountaineers over the hurdles to the tune of 7-0 in the opening game of the season Saturday.

However, the setback for West Virginia is not as tough as it would appear to be on the surface. True, it cannot be wiped off the slate, but, then, there was no disgrace in losing to a team of the caliber of Cam Henderson's Hurricaners, and the Mountaineers have the satisfaction of knowing they were whipped by one of the best teams they will be called upon to face this year, despite the fact that their schedule is among the hardest in the land.

D. & E. is no overnight sensation. It has been good for several years, and, last season, after getting off to a poor start, due to the absence of some regulars from the lineup, the team rallied and won five of its last six games. Geneva won, 21-0; Navy, 27-0, and Georgetown, 39-0, over Elkins in the first three games, and then the little big team went to West Point for the fourth game and led Army, 6-0, until the last 10 minutes of play, the Cadets finally coming back to win, 27-6. Fairmont was beaten, 27-0; West Virginia Wesleyan, 13-7, and Salem, 12-0, in the next three games and then West Virginia University was given a scare, winning by only 15 to 12. Victories over Louisville, 34-0, and John Carroll, 12-6, wound up the season.

This year's Davis and Elkins schedule calls for games with Navy, Quantico Marines, John Carroll, West Virginia Wesleyan and Villa Nova, among others, in addition to the battle with the Mountaineers last Saturday.

THE Motor Square Boxing Club will try out a new program this fall and winter. Instead of offering its patrons a 10-round windup and three six-round preliminaries or a 10-round main event, eight-round semi-final and two six-round preliminaries, as hitherto, it will experiment with five bouts, a 10-round windup, two six-round preliminaries and two four-round bouts.

In explaining the change, Manager John Hernon said he had a double purpose in mind. One was to provide more action in the preliminaries and the other to develop new talent.

"FREQUENTLY eight-round semi-finals prove too long and monotonous and the boxers could cram more action into six rounds of real fighting," Hernon said. "And so also with the other preliminaries. Newcomers in the ring generally are equipped to fight their hardest over three or four rounds, as they do in the amateur ranks, but find the six-round game quite a step up. The result is that they are afraid to extend themselves and go coasting along. Our policy this season will be more and shorter fights and better ones and more new faces."

The Jolly Bowl at New Castle followed this system of two six-round and two four-round preliminaries throughout the summer season and the bouts were productive of some great action and the club broke all records for the town with the attendances at its weekly shows. Ed Fritz, a newspaperman of New Castle, did the matchmaking.

ARMOUR CAPTURES INVITATION PRO EVENT

SHINNECOCK HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 24. — (AP.) — Tommy Armour of Washington, D. C., former national open champion, won the 72-hole invitation professional golf tournament at the National Golf Links here yesterday. The metropolitan open titleholder covered the last 36 holes in 154, which, with his first 148, gave him 302.

ANDERSON, KLINGER QUIT PITT

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(INS.)—Gibby Welch, one of the East's outstanding halfbacks last year, has signed to play football with the New York Yankees this season, according to an announcement made public today by C. C. Pyle, owner of the Yankees. The former University of Pittsburgh all-America star will fill the post vacated by Red Grange.

His first game with the Yankees will be October 14 against Benny Friedman's Detroit Tigers.

PITT LOSES PAIR

Coach Jock Sutherland, of the Pitt gridiron squad, is short one hefty tackle and a promising center today as a result of the unexpected retirement of Carl Klinger and Lester Anderson from the squad.

Klinger, Freeland (Pa.) tackle, who weighs 210 pounds and who was the biggest man in the Pitt football party, has "walked out" on Pitt and Pitt football, according to Panther officials, and he is not expected to return to the local institution. He was eligible to three years of varsity competition.

Anderson, a sophomore, who played as a halfback last season and who was to have played at center in the present campaign, has decided to quit school for one year. The Port Allegheny (Pa.) gridder was taken ill while in camp, but recovered and resumed practice after spending a few days in the hospital. It is understood that he will tour Europe for the next 12 months and return to Pitt next fall.

The Panthers opened their fourth week of practice today with a stiff scrimmage session. Thiel is to be the Pitt opponent here Saturday. According to reports received here, Bethany, the Panther opponent on the following Saturday, is exceptionally strong, and Pitt officials have decided to scout the Bethany-W. & J. game Saturday.

WOMEN BEGIN GOLF PLAY

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Sept. 24.—(AP.) — Two Helens started the thirty-second women's golf championship here today when Miss Helen Paget, of Ottawa, Canada, and Miss Helen Hicks, of New York, led the field of more than 100 women golfers out on the 18-hole qualifying test to determine the 32 survivors for match play beginning tomorrow.

The parade continued with a couple set to leave the first tee every five minutes until 1:35 o'clock this afternoon.

A drop of 10 degrees in temperature caused players, caddies and spectators to shiver as they waited for action, although a bright sun was shining on the half-valley, half-mountain course in the Alleghenies.

TEX HOPES TO SIGN TWO BATTLERS TODAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Tex Rickard expects to close for two important boxing matches today, one a title bout involving the jinx champion of the ring, Joe Dundee, of Baltimore. Rickard has Jack Thompson, California Negro conqueror of Dundee, signed to meet any opponent named and is to confer with Max Waxman, Dundee's manager, in hope of signing the champion. The bout is planned for November 16 over the 15-round route and at 147 pounds.

The other important bout entertained by Rickard is a heavyweight contest between Paulino Uzcudun and Young Stribling.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

ice fans are waiting eagerly to learn in whose hands the team is going to be placed.

It is said that several prominent Pittsburghers are being approached on the matter of taking over the club. Upon the decision of the new men eventually in control will depend whether Odie Cleghorn is to return as manager or Dick Carroll is to succeed him.

WESLEYAN

nus, is rated as the best bet for the other backfield berth. Battles, who is being groomed for an end at present, but who has shown considerable ball-carrying ability; Thomas W. Anderson and Hench will all get their fill of the game before the series is over. The backfield replacement material, however, does not appear to be as strong as the line reserve.

TEAM HEFTY

The Wesleyan line will average about 185 pounds, though if he so desires, Ross can throw enough hefty boys into the action to pull the average up to better than 190. The backs will also be fairly weighty, averaging about 171 pounds.

Wesleyan opened their season by steam rolling Jasper Colebank's Fairmont Teachers under last Friday. The Cats will attempt to emulate their state rivals, Davis-Elkins, by beating West Virginia at Morgantown this coming Saturday.

The team will invade New York October 6 for a game with Chick Meehan's New York University Violets. On October 13, Concord State will be played at Beckley, W. Va. Following this game, the Cats will travel eastward again and will play Georgetown at Washington on October 20. October 27 will find the boys in action against Waynesburg here at home, and then on November 3, they will again head for the seaboard and will face the Navy.

Salem College and the Cats will entertain the folks of Clarksburg November 9 and on November 17 the annual classic with Cam Henderson's Davis-Elkins eleven will be played here. It will be Home Coming Day for Wesleyan.

St. Xavier of Cincinnati, the team that walloped the Bobcats in 1927, hopes to repeat in a game at Cincy, November 24, and the season will be brought to a close with Marshall College at Huntington, Thanksgiving Day.

Cebe Ross is head coach, and he is assisted by his brother, the gentlemanly Kelcel Ross, former backfield coach and chief scout at West Virginia, who is the athletic director here. Seibert is the line coach and scout.

NOTES of the BOXERS

WILLIE DAVIES boxes Ernie Peters, Indian flyweight of Chicago, in the main bout in the Jolly Bowl at New Castle tonight. Howard Mayberry meets Jackie Schwartz of Cleveland in the semi-final and Mickey Dugan of Cleveland boxes Steve Gott of Lorain, O., in the other six-round preliminary. In the four-rounders, Joey Goodman of Norfolk, Va., battles Eddie Smith of Cleveland, and Johnny Haggerty opposes Tom O'Leary of Wilkes-Barre.

The Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. holds its final amateur outdoor boxing show of the season on its grounds on the North Side tonight, with the following card: George Burke vs. Young McDowell, Paul Belenti vs. Sammy Paris, Dominick Profio vs. Bob Smoller, Billy Windso vs. Jack Petro, Tony Marino vs. Johnny Warner, and Sharkey Lesko vs. Eddie Hebner.

Tickets went on sale today at Motor Square Garden and Spalding's, downtown, for the opening boxing show of the season at the Garden next Monday night.

Tony La Rosa of Cincinnati, who recently gave Jack Katkish a great 12-round fight at Marietta, O., will be one of the principals in the semi-final to the Chuck Wiggins-Garfield Johnson fight at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Either Rudy Ceder or Bobby Richardson will be his opponent.

The McKeesport show this week is being held on Wednesday night instead of Thursday because Terry Linko, who meets Johnny Mellow in the main bout, is boxing Freddie Fitzgerald at Washington, Pa., next Monday night, and the boxing commission rules stipulate that five days must elapse between main bout appearances of any boxer. Dominick Profio, the local amateur welterweight champion, will make his professional debut against Jackie Murray of Center avenue, experienced Negro scrapper, in the semi-final of the McKeesport show.

Louis Santucci of the North Side A. C., and B. Powers of the Braddock Library A. C., featherweights, have been matched for one of the bouts on the program to be staged by Homewood Post No. 351, of the American Legion, in the Westinghouse High School auditorium next Friday evening.

Midget Weigast of Philadelphia and Lew Goldberg of Brooklyn will box the main bout of a show at Centennial Field, New Castle, next Thursday night.

Sergt. Sammy Baker and Young Corbett have been rematched for a 12-round bout at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Wednesday night. Corbett recently received an unpopular decision over Baker in Madison Square Garden.

Rene DeVos, the Belgian middleweight, who holds decisions over George Courtney and Dave Shade, will meet Phil (K. O.) Kaplan in the main bout of a show in Madison Square Garden, New York, on the night of Columbus Day, October 12. Tiger Payne and Maxie Rosenbloom will box the semi-final.

Play was scheduled to start this afternoon in the annual Harvard Cup tennis tournament for the scholastic championship of Allegheny county. Thirty-five players are entered.

SOCCER

By TOM BIRKS

WITH Dunlevy traveling to McKeesport and trouncing the National Tubers by a 7-to-0 score, the Westinghouse eleven smashing the German Sport Club by a 4-goals-to-1 score at Turner Park, West View, the Corinthians defeating the East Pittsburgh Magyars, 5 to 0, in the American League, and Harmarville beating Central A. C., in the Central League, 3 goals to 1, soccerites locally had plenty to enthuse over yesterday.

The big surprise was the victory of Westinghouse over the German Sport Club in which everything in the category of bad soccer seemed to go. Reports state that the referee had a tough time controlling the home team, and it seems as though the Turner Park boys put on another one of those periodical outbursts that nearly put the team out of soccerr football last season. And the home team capped the unsportsmanlike methods by refusing the referee the lineup.

Harmarville found another game in which fisticuffs predominated, and where players ordered off the field came back into the game. Five years ago stern measures were found necessary. It seems as though the iron hand will again have to be used. Murray scored two goals and Denny one for the Centrals.

Dunlevy must have been in shooting form at Five Fields, McKeesport. Grandy's team shot seven past the Tube goalie, and when the Tube defense slips seven times, something is radically wrong.

LOUGHRAN GETS OFFER

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Tommy Loughran, light heavyweight champion, at his camp at Harvey's Lake, has received a cablegram from Buenos Aires offering him $25,000 for a heavyweight bout there at the end of November. No opponent was mentioned.

Independent Grid Season Opens

By TOM BIRKS.

INDEPENDENT football got under way on a big scale Sunday when most of the leading teams in the district swung into action. The big game of the day, at McKeesport, found the Olympics defeating the Monessen Olympics, 13 to 0. West View defeated the light South Greensburg gridders, 25 to 0; Dutchtown made it two straight by stopping the Boston Bulldogs, 7 to 0, and the McKeesport Crimsons were held to a 6-6 tie by Coal Valley.

The beautiful fall day brought out big crowds to nearly all the games, and it appears that independent football is going to have a big season. With one of the greatest crowds ever assembled by a local football game, which included about 1,500 from Monessen, the McKeesport Olympics opened their season at Rainbow Gardens. The game somewhat resembled a college tilt, one entire stand of Monessen supporters, with a cheer leader, gave the Tube City contingent something to think about. When Red Gannon started the game, it was estimated 6,000 were present.

Monessen seemed to have the edge in the first quarter, mainly due to the fact that the up-river team dashed an end named Reice, who managed to smash up everything that Goldberg tried. The Olympics missed a good chance to score when Evans fumbled on the two-yard line. The first break of the second quarter fell to McKeesport, when, after the Tubers could not get through the Monessen line, Newlin punted. Paul received on his own 26-yard line and fumbled, Campbell recovering. Evans went through the line for five yards; Quinn went around the end for a gain, and finally Slack went tthrough the center for a touchdown. Newlin's extra point kick was blocked.

Zoltac went into the game at the beginning of the third quarter and the former East Pittsburgh man made a big difference to the team. His terrific line plunging tore off plenty of yardage, and with the ball on the Monessen 25-yard line, Goldberg crossed up the Brown and Black with a forward pass to Newlin, who was standing on the goal line. Goldberg kicked the extra point. That settled the scoring.

The Tube City outfit had the ball on the Monessen one-yard line when the game finished.

MEN WHO GUARD THEIR HEALTH SMOKE CIGARS

92% of the Principal Executives of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company are Cigar Smokers

La Palina is America's Largest Selling High Grade Cigar [OVER A MILLION A DAY] its outstanding popularity is the best proof of its unusual quality

A Significant Statement to Smokers

As a result of a survey, it has been ascertained that 92% of the principal executives of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company are cigar smokers—their heavy responsibilities requiring the good health that can only result from perfect nerves.

For while a cigar yields the utmost pleasure that can be derived from smoking, it can only be enjoyed to the full if it be consumed slowly and leisurely. So a cigar is not smoked to satisfy a mere nervous habit or craving. And one is not lighted from the end of another, hurriedly and nervously.

Many doctors—especially throat specialists—urge their patients who smoke to switch to cigars—for to quote one very well known New York practitioner:

"By far the greater part of throat troubles with which smokers are afflicted result from the drying, burning effect of hot tobacco smoke upon the tender tissues of the throat.

"Cigar smoke, on the contrary, is cool, not hot. And it is cool because the manner in which a cigar is made causes the tobacco to burn slowly and the smoke is filtered and cooled as it is drawn through the body of the cigar. Besides which, in the making of a cigar nothing but tobacco is utilized—no quick-burning foreign substance for wrapper being necessary."

Make this test for a week—smoke cigars exclusively and you will find yourself feeling better, with no cough or throat irritation, improved nerves, increased vitality, less of that tired feeling, and you will have realized a new conception of the enjoyment and the solace that can be derived from smoking.

To really test cigars with justice to yourself and to cigars we suggest the test be made with La Palinas. Since they are America's largest selling, high grade cigar ... over a million a day—you can smoke th , confident that they will please you.

The sensational success of La Palina results from an exclusive and secret blend which combines for the first time in one cigar an extreme mildness with a rare richness of both taste and fragrance.

12 RULES FOR SUCCESS

by GENE TUNNEY
RETIRED HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION

NO. 4—CHARACTER.

IN building or shaping a life in any direction, one thing is fundamental—and that one thing is character.

Reputation is what people think we are; character is what we are. Reputation is like a meteor which flashes brilliantly in the sky and then leaves it darker than ever. Character is the everlasting sun which shines on the glory of day, whether it is hidden by clouds or gives it unhindered healing.

Nothing in the world can take the place of character—social position, political prestige, financial power or the hurrahs of the crowd. It is the one part of a man's makeup that constantly lives with him. It is more insistent than adhesive tape on a boxer's hands.

People may describe us as generous, truthful, square, considerate and manly—you yourself are the only one who can prove, or disprove, their appraisal. Character is the only persistent part of a man's life which never deserts him. Sickness, criticism, reverses, defeat, all may come, but his character remains his own.

You may ask what this has to do with a boxer's career and I answer—everything. Every form and shade of athletics is open to suspicion—baseball, football, tennis, hockey, boxing. The integrity of all sports depends on the character of its devotees. Let one man throw a game, make a suspicious pass, pull his punches or stall, and immediately the word sport is imperiled and withered under the scathing criticism of the public press.

A boxer deals with managers, promoters, sport writers, contestants with an intimacy that either can make or mar his contracts or create enmities that extend far beyond the days of his activity in the ring. To have it said of a boxer that he is a square shooter, that he never speaks with a double meaning, that his word is one hundred per cent reliable, and that he is always ready to meet his rival on a fair basis is a reputation every real man covets.

My career as a boxer is closed. I leave it trusting that I have the confidence, esteem and good will of every man it has been my privilege to meet and I sincerely hope that the promoters, managers, sports writers and others with whom I have been on intimate terms will say of me, not that I have been a great boxer but that my word was as good as my note. This, after all, would be the highest tribute they could pay me.

ARREST 5 IN 'PHONY' MONEY PLOT

Tony Balses, of Toledo, O., whose periodical visits to Pittsburgh occurred simultaneously with a wave of counterfeit bills, is under arrest in his home. Balses was arrested Friday by Landvoigt, William G. Harper in charge of the Cleveland district, Operative Harry Cooper, of Cleveland, and Toledo detectives.

Seventy-nine $1 notes, which had been bleached then reprinted into $20 Federal Reserve Bank notes, were confiscated officers say. His wife and three others also were arrested. Balses' bail was set at $20,000. He made a visit here last fall, again in July and then two weeks ago, it is charged. Previously he had circulated spurious $10 bills, and escaped when a companion was arrested in Toledo last fall, officers allege.

The jurists include Robert S. Frazer, Emory A. Walling, Alex Simpson, Jr., John W. Kephart, Sylvester B. Sadler and William I. Schaffer.

Opinions in two cases appealed from the Philadelphia courts were handed down. The disk automobile-wheel case of Charles Hudson Machen against the Budd Wheel Company was decided in an opinion by Justice Frazer, in which an assignment of error was sustained and judgment reversed and entered for the defendant.

This was a breach of word of mouth contract case in which the jury awarded Machen judgment for $450,000. At a previous trial $250,000 had been awarded. Machen had invented a patented process for rolling tapered steel disk automobile wheels while an employe of the Budd company.

While refusing to pay royalties the company agreed orally to pay him in proportion to the amount the company made out of the invention, it was set forth.

Justice Schaffer handed down the opinion, Justice Kephart dissenting, reversing judgment of $154,968 in the case of the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Company, executor of the will of William T. Carter, against the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, which had dumped culm on the property of the deceased.

The following attorneys were admitted to practice: Edward Chaplin, Clearfield; Bernard R. Cohn, Philadelphia; Fred H. Davis, Cambria; Herbert W. Hahn, Johnstown; Donald L. Hankey, Parnassus; Harold W. Hawkins, Waynesburg; Donovan H. Henry, Greenville; Albert W. Johnson, Jr., Lewisburg; Richard T. Jennings, Greensburg; Patsy V. Marino, Washington; Pressly Leech Stevenson, Washington, and August L. W. Sismondo, California.

HOOVER AT NEW HIGH; 331 VOTES POSSIBLE

By CHARLES N. WHEELER
(Noted Political Analyst.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—The definite trend to Hoover, which was first manifested in a substantial manner about 10 days ago and has continued unabated, reaches a new high point in the figures of the nation-wide poll of the Hearst newspapers this morning.

With New York, Massachusetts and Ohio still in the Smith column, which the straw vote thus far indicated, Mr. Hoover's electoral college vote, based on this morning's figures, jumps to 331, a gain of 23 since the nation-wide survey one week ago today.

Connecticut and New Jersey, for the first time since the Hearst canvass began, are now in the Hoover column.

131 MARGIN POSSIBLE

With these arbitrary allottments to the Democrats, the electoral college this morning stands:

Hoover	331
Smith	200

Necessary to choice, 266.

Merely for the sake of speculation some startling assumptions can be built for the moment around these figures.

Without throwing out the implication here that such will be the case, it is fair assumption at this stage in the battle that the Republicans have a 50-50 change of carrying New York, Massachusetts and Ohio, now consigned to the Smith column.

There are 87 electoral votes in these states. Should Mr. Hoover win all three and the final division of the electoral college not vary from the indications of this morning in the other states, the count then would stand:

Hoover	418
Smith	113

Four years ago John W. Davis' electoral vote was 136.

While G. O. P. managers question the final allotment of New York, Massachusetts and Ohio to Smith, particularly Ohio, this morning's table, based on the straw vote, shows Florida, North Carolina and Texas in the Hoover column.

UPHEAVAL IN SOUTH

That is not only the straw vote indication, but all observers on the ground at this hour agree that the upheaval is so tremendous it is a question whether the Democratic organizations man can stem the Hoover tide.

But, again, for the sake of speculation, assume that these three states which have a total electoral vote of 38, should remain in the day of judgment rooted to their Democratic traditions. The table would then stand:

Hoover	380
Smith	151

There are many impartial observers throughout the country who are predicting that Gov. Smith, while destined to roll up a record-breaking popular vote for the Democratic ticket, may be snowed under in the electoral college more overwhelmingly than any candidate in a generation, with the exception of the 1912 Wilson vote.

In arriving at these conclusions they group such states as Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Minnesota, and Pennsylvania. Their assumption is that all of these states at the end will be carried by Hover, but by a greatly reduced Republican plurality.

For example, they take Iowa. While Gov. Smith, they argue, may increase the Democratic vote by more than 100,000, it will not be sufficient to carry the electoral vote.

PENNSYLVANIA STILL G. O. P.

Pennsylvania, too, is going to give Smith a whale of a vote, but they point out that he could increase the Davis vote by half a million and still lose by a large margin. He could combine the entire La Follette vote with that of Davis in Pennsylvania and still lose by upwards of 300,000, based on the vote of 1924.

This same line of reason they pursue with respect to a score of states, and they hold that the logic of the situation is obvious to those who have taken the pains to analyze minutely the cross currents and the processes of thought of the voters in these segregated groups.

They assume, also, that in the windup of the great struggle the prosperity issue will be dominant.

It is possible that things are germinating all over the country that will sprout into an upheaval quite contrary to present aspects.

But as of today there is no mistaking the Hoover lead and his growing strength, as evidenced in the straw vote by the newspapers and by other reliable agencies for mirroring public sentiment.

NEW JERSEY SWING HELPS

The swinging of New Jersey and Connecticut to the Hoover column today marks the first big break in the industrial East. To Mr. Hoover's invasion of New Jersey the fore part of last week, is attributed the marked bulge in the G. O. P. stock.

The favorable reaction of his address on the future of American labor has been noted since in the daily Hearst canvass in sections of the state where the so-called labor vote predominates.

The whole-hearted approval of Mr. Hoover's address, voiced by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, also is being reflected in the canvass in parts of Pennsylvania.

The new trend in the East, from all that can be summarized from canvasses and the public prints, appears to be predicated on the averment that prosperity and not beer is the paramount issue in the fight.

DIRIGIBLE CREW PRACTICES BY MAKE-BELIEVE TRIPS

International News Service.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Every day the British crew that will take aloft the new giant dirigible R-100 sets off on an imaginary aerial journey half way across the world.

Every detail of these make-believe voyages is worked out to the last point of mathematical accuracy.

The crews, under their commanders, assemble at the royal airship works at Cardington, near Bedford, in a big glass windowed compartment.

This is a replica of the control room of a giant modern dirigible. Then they are told the object of their imaginary trip. It may be New York. Whereupon the "flight" begins.

First of all the cruising or average speed of the airship is fixed. Then the course of its voyage across the Atlantic, were it actually being made, is plotted systematically hour by hour.

A stream of meteorological reports comes in. Some of them are presumed to come from shore stations, some from liners in mid-ocean. The officer in charge has to make allowances for these weather messages, and particularly for the various wind speeds indicated. If necessary, in order to avoid a bad storm center, he decides to alter his course, he explains his reasons for doing so to his assistants.

Having regard for conditions existing from hour to hour, the commander can fix accurately the time the airship would have reached New York on an actual voyage.

'Dollar' Store's Looters Leave $1 Payment

D. F. Ekdahl, manager of the Steele One Cent to a Dollar store, Eighth avenue, Homestead, found a dollar on the counter of the store when he made an inspection trip yesterday.

He also found that $1,000 worth of merchandise had been hauled away from the store during the night. Police believe a burglar with a sense of humor left the money in payment for the goods.

KIWANIANS OPEN CONVENTION

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 24.—With about 1,000 delegates present and twice that many visitors in the city, the state convention of the Kiwanis Club was called to order this morning in the White Swan Hotel. Dr. S. A. Baltz, head of the Uniontown Kiwanis Club, made the address of welcome. Walter P. Schenck, secretary of the Uniontown Chamber of Commerce, also welcomed the delegates.

The women visitors to the convention also are being entertained in special sessions in the First Methodist Protestant Church.

For the first time in the history of the organization, O. Samuel Cummings, of Kansas City, international president, attended a Pennsylvania session.

Herbert Moore, of Dubois, past governor, and Homer H. Swaney, of Beaver Falls, present state governor, taught Sunday school classes here yesterday. Both New Castle and Bedford are in the contest for the next convention and a close fight is likely.

CHAUTAUQUA REGION HAS LIGHT SNOWFALL

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Snow fell for a brief period this morning in the Chautauqua region. The temperature was 39.

SUSPECT FREED IN HOLDUP

Jerome King, 118 Miltenberger street, was acquitted of assault and battery and pointing firearms in a sealed verdict returned this morning in Criminal Court. King had been accused of participating in the holdup of the Bluestone Pharmacy, 527 Shady avenue, last January 10. Harry Bluestone, proprietor, was shot during a gun battle with the robbers, one of whom was shot in the left hand. King bore such a wound, but was able to prove an alibi. He said he was shot by a man who held him up on January 18.

400 BODIES FOUND IN RAVAGED TOWN

International News Service.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 24.—With estimates of Florida's hurricane dead ranging from 1,000 to 2,200, Red Cross officials today were checking the casualty lists of small towns along the shore of Lake Okeechobee in the flooded Everglades section.

Within the last 48 hours 400 bodies have been found at the hamlet of Pelican Bay and other inhabitants of the town are missing. Previous to the discovery of these bodies, Gov. John Martin estimated the total loss of life in the state at 1,500.

With the Kissimmee River pouring water into Lake Okeechobee and the lake over its dykes, there is the menace of a new flood. This condition is handicaping relief workers, who must use boats to traverse most of the distance between this city and lake towns.

Meanwhile the work of reconstruction proceeds in the coast towns. Winter residents are arriving by the score to rebuild their homes.

Relief work in this section of the state will consume another week at least, it is estimated.

Howard W. Selby, Palm Beach county Red Cross chairman, boosted the total death list to 2,200 last night after receiving a report from O. C. Geiger, who had just made a complete survey of the storm and flood area. Geiger said the property loss would be at least 35 per cent and that to poultry and live stock 98 per cent.

KIDNAPED UNION AGENT FREED

DETROIT, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—Max Ruben, business agent and secretary of the motion picture operators' union of Detroit, kidnaped from his office by four armed men late last Wednesday, returned to his office unharmed yesterday, Ray W. Gagnon, president of the union, announced.

According to Gagnon, "not a single cent" was paid for Ruben's release. Ruben, he said, had been held captive not more than five miles from the city limits.

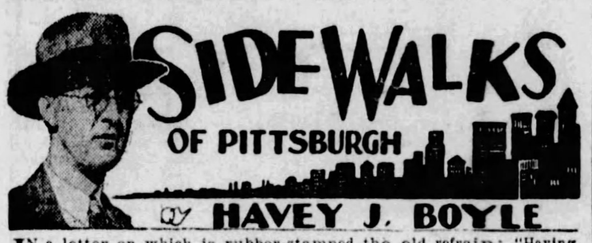
Gagnon refused to disclose Ruben's present whereabouts, saying he was "resting" at the home of friends. At Ruben's home, it was said, he had not appeared there, but that friends had reported his safe return to the city.

Five Girls Safe As Car Upsets In Creek

Although their automobile plunged over a 30-foot embankment and overturned, it landed upright in Nine Mile Creek, near West Hutchison avenue, Edgewood yesterday and five young women occupants escaped with cuts, bruises and a ducking.

The machine was driven by Miss Ann Scanlon, 21, of 719 Jones avenue, North Braddock. The other occupants were Miss Frances Lloyd, 20, of 805 Kirkpatrick street, North Braddock; Lorna Oakley, 21, of 801 North avenue, North Braddock; Emily Smith, 21, of 2000 Hampton avenue, Swissvale, and Louise Stewart, 21, of Maple avenue, Edgewood.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH



By HAVEY J. BOYLE

IN a letter on which is rubber-stamped the old refrain: "Having a good time, wish you were here," a number of railroad men of Pittsburgh, now on a junket to the Pacific Northwest, say: "We miss your sidewalks, but we'll drink a toast to you when we strike Vancouver, British Columbia." The letter encloses the following cards of some of Pittsburgh's best-known rail men: W. O. Baskin, Canadian Pacific; F. W. Stuart, Northern Pacific; R. R. Riggs, Pennsylvania; S. W. Sankey, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie; J. W. McAdoo, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, and David Sharsky, Canadian National Railways.

Knowing railroad men as we do we have a hazy notion of one reason why they might be visiting Vancouver, B. C., but the letter would have been of more news value if the rail men had told why so many Pittsburghers are out in the unfenced spaces.

We missed a chance to visit Vancouver and the inducements were great, too. In Canada they still allow passes and we were offerd a pass from Vancouver to Toronto, which is almost the whole distance, but we were so sick of trains at the time that the trip along the Pacific from Los Angeles to Vancouver seemed to be almost as long as the trip from Los Angeles to Chicago. So we took a route across the states, instead.

* * *

IN SELF-DEFENSE the railroads of this country had to seek legislation forbidding the issuing of passes. There was a time in Pittsburgh, and we suppose the custom was even more common in larger centers, when getting a railroad pass to almost any place was as easy as borrowing a postage stamp or a match. Common Councilmen in those days (there were Common and Select Councilmen then) could take care of you in a jiffy. Many a young blade of the town took week-end trips to New York and Atlantic City, assisted by a friendly Councilman.

My Dear Sir: "I am enclosing an invitation to attend the dance of the Pittsburgh Chapter No. 1, DeMolay Alumni Association. We felt you would be interested in coming because of the novel fact that we are going to give away a live baby—not that we felt you needed a baby, but because you might be amused to see some other gentleman become a surprised father. The live baby feature as a door prize is genuine and we guarantee the guest who is the lucky winner that he will be more than pleased with the award. The baby will be completely equipped with pink trimmings and the like, but the winner must sign a release for us so that we will not be under obligations to pay for its board, education, etc.

"The DeMolay Alumni Association is an international social and fraternal organization of former members of the Order of DeMolay. It is designed to keep intact the friendships made in DeMolay. Signed: Fred C. Rotzoll, President."

THE man who wins the baby had better have along a lady because men are notoriously poor at handling babies. They always hold infants as if they fear the babies are going to break in half. Personally, we seldom have much trouble. We have evolved a system that keeps the baby quiet at all times. Before picking the baby up we plaster our hair with current jelly. This eliminates the duty which all babies instinctively feel—that they must remove the jelly from the piece of bread they hold and put it into the customer's hair, so to say. Once, you teach the baby your hair has sufficient jelly in it the baby will not bother you much in this particular.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.

In Omaha Al relieved the farmers; in Oklahoma (near Claremore) he bawled out the Baptists, but in Denver he reached his peak when he told the truth about the power trusts.

It's no novelty to hear the farmers verbally relieved. And to reprimand a Protestant is nothing new, for they do that to each other. But when you hop on the power trusts you are standing on the very arches of the Republican party.

I had a joke about the power lobby in the papers and I got so many letters from power magnets saying "there was no power lobby" that it almost made me lose faith in rich men.

So, sic em, Al.

Yours for everybody owning their own river. WILL ROGERS.

Continue Pursuit After Seizing Slot Machines

Chasing a hit and run motorist in the Hulton road yesterday, county detectives stopped long enough to seize two slot machines which they saw on display in front of the barbacue stand of Dave White, placed there, the sleuths say, for the special accommodation of Sunday visitors. White was ordered to report to Chief George Murren.

Detectives Benson McWilliams and Samuel Whisner made the seizure.

Our DANCING DAUGHTERS

Benny and Ann Are Married And Leave for a Long Honeymoon Abroad

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

On his first day in Manor Park, where he is to apply the business methods learned in college, Benjamin Carrington Black has occasion to observe three of the suburban town's most alluring examples of feminity. Unnoticed by men, he sees Dianna Rand—nineteen and pretty, enter a jewelry store with her friend, Beatrice Sheldon, whose trailing dress is reminiscent of the Gay Nineties. In the store Diana and Bea encounter Ann Evarts, a trim, petite person. Ann in Diana's roadster sees Noddy and Toddy and Norman Gregory and leaves Diana and Beatrice to join them. Bea and her brother, Freddie, prepare for the party at the Yacht Club. Benny also attends the party where Diana and her friends meet him. It is a gay affair, with Diana being the life of it. Benny is fascinated by the quiet Ann, who makes believe that she does not like "wild" parties. Diana, after the party, tells her mother all about Benny. She meets him several times and falls in love with him. Mrs. Evarts is anxious that her daughter, Ann, fall in love with Benny. However, he is afraid he is falling in love with Diana. Ann tells Norman that Beatrice has a past. At North Lake where the crowd are for a week, Norman questions Bea about her past and she confesses. Later they get married. Diana dreams of the future when Benny professes his love for her. The crowd goes to a party, while Benny and Ann are left in camp, after Ann feigns illness. When the crowd returns Benny wonders how to explain being alone with Ann. Diana is heartbroken when she receives an invitation to Ann and Benny's wedding.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"WHAT'S wrong with me, Dad!" she cried hysterically. "Tell me that—what's wrong with me? I'm not a liar—a trickster! I've been square, decent, with everybody—oh——"

He ran his hand over the dark curls, held the shaking little figure, led the girl to her mother. Diana sank down, buried her face. "I have been decent, fair. And I've lost—and they've won! Why, Mother, Daddy? Why?"

Seymour Rand cleared his throat—shocked and dismayed—while Millicent wept in sympathy. "It must mean something," he suggested, 'that you still can like yourself. Have you thought of that, dear? You still can like yourself."

She had not thought of that, and it gave her a thin, wintry sort of comfort. Life! Ideals going for nothing—the code—faith, honor. The fine high spirit brought low! And yet . . . Well, she herself had dipped no standard. As always she had been she still was, and upon this she must build, win back to happiness when and how she could.

Millicent led her away finally, all gentle understanding, and within a little time Diana could smile again. And if there were something of the old warmth, the old carefree quality, missing from her smile, only Mother and Dad noticed and understood, for Diana lived up to her intention of being proud. So stubbornly, indeed, did she hold to this as to insist upon attending the wedding on the last day of August, though even Ben advised against it.

"Why do you give that little clawing cat the satisfaction, Di? Say the word, and not one of us will go, not even Neddy and Toddy. The crowd is wise to Ann, and every last one of them is with you and good and willing to let her get married among empty pews."

Diana laughed, visioning Hanna's discomfiture if this should happen. But she refused such spectacular loyalty. "I'm not thinking of her at all, Bea. I don't want Be— anyone to think I care. Besides, I couldn't do that to him; he's got trouble enough ahead."

So it happened that Diana was among the guests, a striking little figure in a misty mauve frock with a wide hat shading her pale cheeks, bringing out the blue-gray of her eyes—those truthful eyes whose gaze Benny Black was to remember as long as he lived.

Perhaps he was thinking of Diana's eyes, of the merry red lips raised to his, as he stood before the altar and heard the words which made the dazzling little creature at his side his wife. Like a moonbeam wrapped in ends of cloud she looked, with her bright hair shining through the long all too-elaborate veil, her tiny figure resplendent in ivory satin, a smile of victory curving her lips.

Something not quite real about her, not quite suggestive of the home-maker, the potential mother, as she stood there timidly, yet with perfect poise, fixing a wide, innocent gaze upon the clergyman.

Benny may have sensed this unrealness, contrasted it in a swift flash of misgiving with Diana's wholesome charm. For he did not look quite the happy bridegroom as he turned away with his wife on his arm for the slow walk down the aisle, while the wedding march tumbled gleefully from the organ loft.

He had taken only a few steps when he raised his head, his attention drawn as by an irresistible force, and his eyes met Diana's. A look between them, one void of any expression at all; a contact of souls laid bare for a startled instant.

Her face was frozen as on the night at the camp, and he colored faintly and went on, out of the church.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE newspapers were brought to Diana on the tray with her coffee the next morning. Propped against the pillows, all flushed and sleepy-eyed, with the dark curls tumbled, she read about the wedding which, the society reporter gushed, "united Manor Park's most beautiful belle to the town's most romantic and popular young business man."

"Huh!" grunted the reader. And she looked not at all the proud and very modern young person as she went on down the column, learning that the bride and groom had left for a long trip abroad. "Had to leave his precious factory after all," she mused. "But I suppose Ann wound herself around his neck and he didn't know what was happening. The wiser they are the sappier they act. Well—"

Her face was pressed into the pillow, but only for a few minutes. Then she got out of bed, a butterfly thing in blue and green and gold pajamas, and brought a little box from the desk, raising the cover slowly, with a small tightening of the lips. A dried and faded flower came out first and was dropped into the waste basket. She had gathered it on Inspiration Point—gathered it when it was colorful and fragrant as the love it symbolized. And now it was dead, and love was dead.

A dance program with "Bob" scrawled many times down the lines; a cheap, torn fan—a souvenir of a dinner party, a place card; a tinted pebble from the Yacht Club Beach. Negligible trifles, yet they had meant much—and very much to a girl in love. All were tossed into the wastebasket, and there was left only the envelope with the dancing feet penciled on the back.

Diana held this a long while, wistful and uncertain, and ended by putting it back in the box. This much she might retain of a luminous memory; this much belonged to her out of things which had been and were not . . .

Beatrice telephoned later in the day and invited her for the week-end. Diana was listless, inclined to remain at home, but her friend insisted, and so she drove to the stucco house up the hill and made a supreme effort to be gay.

The effort was needed here. Diana realized this wonderingly, sensing a certain something—an odd tension—in the atmosphere of the pretty home. Norman Gregory loved his beautiful wife; no question of this. But it was as if something stood between him and that love; that which made him sit with his eyes on her as if in harassing study, listen rather too closely to what she said, glance up sharply when the telephone rang, cast an inquiring look over her mail.

Was Norman suspicious of Beatrice? It seemed unthinkable to Diana. Yet there was that something between them! his air of watching and waiting.

Also there was a difference in Beatrice. No longer sullen and rebellious, she nevertheless appeared burdened by a sort of anxiety; an eager humility was in her attitude toward her husband. She seemed pathetically eager to please him and afraid she might not.

Still she assured Diana that she was happy. "Oh, happier than I ever dreamed of being, Di! Norman is so kind—such a marvelous person! And to think of him—well, forgetting everything—"

Diana caught her up short on that. "You'd better do some forgetting yourself, ole dearie. For heaven's sake, let what's gone lie in peace! Spoil everything if you don't." Then, because of the white fear crossing the other girl's face: "Why shouldn't he be kind and marvelous to you? Few like you, Bea—so square and lovable. He's lucky, and knows it."

Beatrice brushed tears away, smiled a bit tremulously. She said: "You really think that, Di? I hope it's true. I love him so, you see."

Diana left the house puzzled and ill at ease. There had been nothing tangible, nothing she could put her finger on, to indicate a lack of complete accord between the Gregorys. Yet in her heart she felt unhappiness waited just around the corner for them both.

And that unhappiness always waited, ready to pounce upon her own small self, she knew without so much as a second thought. And set about moving so fast and upon such an erratic course that, as she believed, it would have great difficulty catching her.

The World Over -:- By Madge Geyer

LITTLE Miss Cherry Blossom and dainty Miss Goldenrod! As far apart as the poles—that is, in looks and customs and language. But never in heart! Oh, no! The world over the language of the heart is the same. The same sighs and anxieties, the same wonderings and waitings for the Prince Charming, the same longings for Love.

For Love is the universal language. And wherever Love is, there you find happiness and harmony and peace and joy. And I'm sure if these two dainty maids ever met, they'd understand each other before you could bat an eye. Love does that, you know. It brings understanding and sympathy and happiness. They may envy each other many other things, but never Love. For each in her own heart knows that some day she will find it—and then—well, it's the same old story, whether in the land of the Cherry Blossom or the glowing country of the Goldenrod.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" By Adele Garrison

Madge Hears More of Philip Veritzen's Past

"SHE felt no deeper emotion for me than she would for a faithful dog."

The words, full of the bitter humiliation which had been his youthful portion, came haltingly from Philip Veritzen's lips. I threw out my hand in an involuntary gesture of sympathy.

"How you have suffered! I exclaimed softly, regretted both words and gesture the next second, for my employer quickly grasped my outstretched hand in both his.

"Heart of gold!" he murmured flamboyantly. Then as I freed my hand from his grasp, he looked the protest which he evidently did not think it opportune to voice.

"However," he resumed, "I must not let you waste your sympathy upon the idea that any minutest portion of that youthful suffering or infatuation has lingered with me. The memory of it, yes, and the bitterness at the scurvy trick which Fate played me in the matter of my birth. But my love for the Princess Olga died long ago, although I am second to no one in my admiration of the beauty, the grace and the keen mentality of the Queen of Transvania. She lacks, however, the warmth of emotion and the unselfishness which alone make a woman adorable. I early discovered a streak of ruthlessness in her nature and realized that though I was perhaps her closest associate and she confided all her troubles to me, yet she really never had seen me as a man, as anything but a sort of human machine assigned to her retinue. I was sure that a year after I had left her service, she would have difficulty in recalling either my name or my features."

I mentally echoed his remark concerning the streak of ruthlessness in the nature of Queen Olga of Transvania. I just had come from the frightened daughter of that queen, a fugitive because of her mother's determination to marry her to the middle-aged and ugly King of Trees.

"Of course, with your rare knowledge of youth," he said, "you realize that my discovery of Olga's ruthlessness did not lessen at that time either my longing for her, or my suffering at losing her. It was several years before I was able to think calmly of her, and I do not like even now to think of her wedding day when I, as an officer of her guard, saw her married to my cousin, the king, who did not know of his kinsman's existence, and would not have spent two thoughts upon the matter if he had been informed of it.

"Do you wonder," the vibrant voice went on, "that I swore a mighty oath to myself that day, vowing that sometime, somehow, I would even my score with the royal family of Transvania? The memory of that vow followed me across the ocean, for I left the country, immediately following Olga's marriage, taking care that no faintest clue to my destination was left. I asked only that the Transvania part of my life be blotted out.

"My life, my career, since I came to this country always have been the property of the public, although I have tried to keep my home life as private as possible. Five years after I came here, I met the gentle, loving girl who later became my wife and Noel's mother. While she lived—only a short 10 years after our marriage—she gave my life comfort, dignity and beauty. She died believing that she had given me supreme happiness as well, for I made it the business of my life that she should believe it."

He paused on that speech, and I was conscious that he was watching my reaction to it. But I kept my face blank of any other expression than sympathetic interest in his story. His remark that he had ceased to care for Princess Olga years before his artistic intimation that he had not loved his wife, the resulting inference which my knowledge of him bade me draw—all these strengthened my resolution to give him no intimation that I was reading between the lines of his story as he patently wished me to do.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.

U.S. Senator from New York

Respiratory Ills Are Most Common

IT IS probable you will never be arrested. You may never serve on the jury. But one thing is almost as certain as life itself. And that is, that you will have some illnesses.

The average person is sick on an average of about once every year. This is the conclusion of all health authorities who have made a study of the "incidence of disease," the prevalence of disease.

DR. COPELAND

Not long ago I saw some figures put out by a government agency. These figures were founded on a survey made to determine the numbers and types of illness which people have.

A small inland city was chosen. This was selected because it was regarded as fairly representative of climatic, industrial occupation, racial stock and general sanitation. Twice a month for about two and a half years, every house in town was visited to determine the present and past state of health of each member of the family.

The survey revealed on the average 1,050 cases annually of sickness for every 1,000 of the population. Of these illnesses 40 per cent were severe enough to put the victims to bed.

What do you suppose was the most common ailment? This survey revealed what all students of disease know, that colds and bronchitis come first in the list.

These are what we call the "respiratory diseases," diseases of the breathing organs. They are responsible, the world over, for most of our ailments. If we were to add influenza, grippe and pneumonia, the respiratory diseases would account for almost 60 per cent of our disabilities.

What can we do to reduce the tremendous economic loss and the misery caused by colds and bronchitis? Can we actually control or, at least, lessen the incidence of these diseases?

There are some things we can do to escape colds. We can avoid certain practices which are among the causes of these too common ailments.

Colds, influenza and the resulting bronchitis are hand-conveyed diseases. Contaminated moisture from the nose and mouth of one person reaches his hands and is passed to the hand of another. The second person rubs his nose or puts his fingers in his own mouth, thus carrying the unfriendly germs, which are eager to originate another cold.

The importance of clean hands—frequent cleansing of the hands with soap and water—cannot be overlooked. If you are under the necessity of contact with a person who has a cold, you must avoid getting the moisture from his breathing machinery, either out of the air or through the medium of the hands.

Never eat or go to bed without thorough washing of hands, face and entrance to the nostrils. A little care in this one of several matters will save you lots of colds.

Answers to Health Queries

J. J. Q.—Is it always necessary to resort to operation for varicose veins? Is the latter a serious procedure? Does it take time to recuperate, and are the results permanent?

A.—No, not unless the trouble has been of long standing and is very painful. It is not considered a serious operation. The length of time it will take to recuperate depends upon the extent of the trouble in each case. Yes, if properly atended to.

M. F. Q.—What would relieve shortness of breath and hard breathing? My heart beats very fast. I am also troubled with diabetes and high blood pressure.

A.—Have your heart examined first of all. While the trouble is very likely aggravated by your general health it would be wise to make sure that the heart itself is normal. Follow your doctor's advice with regard to diet and the further treatment you require.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

WE MODERNS

LOVE-MAKING, like playing the violin, requires a lot of technique, long practice and real inspiration. And, even then, a man must have an early start in order to be an expert.

* * *

Sometimes a girl feels that it's almost a shame to take a man who can stake a tent, reef a sail and ride a mettlesome hunter, and pin him down to running a lawn-mower, stoking a furnace and walking the baby.

HELEN ROWLAND

Most modern young couples seem to be looking for a "get-divorced-quick-scheme"—something guaranteed to save them the boredom of "serving time" at the life-sentence of matrimony.

In the average wife's opinion, there ought to be some way to vaccinate a husband against office vamps—and every bona fide blonde should wear a bell around her neck.

After a few years of marriage, it takes an alarm to arouse a husband's imagination or awaken his curiosity—usually the flash of rivalry in another man's eyes.

Ever since Adam complimented Eve's first fig-leaf-creation, woman has longed to have her clothes admired; and the average husband's "S'alright, I guess,' has fallen like sand bags on her vanity.

It is easy enough to quicken a man's pulse, these petting days; but now, as always, you have to raise love from the lower plane to a high altitude before his HEART is affected.

Many a man's romantic enthusiasm for a clever woman has been punctured by the stab of her pointed wit.

* * *

One swallow doesn't make a summer—but one kiss from the right man, at the right moment, will make it a lot brighter—for any girl.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, September 25

THE astral forces for this day assist those who labor with diligence and application, and while their efforts may call forth fitting rewards of stability and industry yet there are certain speculative tendencies which may offset the ward-won earnings. Shun rash moves and extravagances. There may be unexpected moves or sudden journeys.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which diligence and steadfastness will reap suitable rewards, but there is a sign of these being subject to squandering or dissipation through rash acts or sudden moves. Travel or change may bring benefits, but the funds should be safeguarded.

A child born on this day may be industrious and persevering, but may also be disposed to squander its substance unless it be grounded in thrift and frugality in early life.

Take Him Seriously if Matrimony Is Objective—Fay King to Girls

EVERYBODY THINKS WE ARE ENGAGED!
WELL!-LET THEM THINK IT!
TAKING THINGS SERIOUSLY IS THE SECRET OF AN ENGAGEMENT!
AW! QUIT YOUR KIDDING, BIG BOY!
MANY GIRLS KID THEMSELVES OUT OF AN ENGAGEMENT!
I WAS ENGAGED TO HIM - I'VE BEEN ENGAGED THREE TIMES!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

SOME girls who have difficulty in becoming engaged wonder how other girls manage to do so so easily!

The secret is to take every thing he says seriously, even if he is only kidding.

By this method, many a girl has run a guest into a marriage.

The trouble with many girls is that while they are matrimonially inclined, rather than have any one suspect their real feelings, they will wisecrack and kid themselves out of a promising romance.

A sense of humor is a poor thing where marriage is the object.

The successful girl makes it a point to see nothing less than a fiance, while the jolly girl is too apt to see nothing more than a pal.

If your object is matrimony, better to believe too much than too little!

DEPUTY SHOT AT FROM AMBUSH

WEBSTER SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 24.—In the trial of Seymour Smith, farmhand, for the murder of Thomas McKenzie, 52, O. D. Morton, deputy sheriff and owner of bloodhounds that followed a trail to Smith's bedside from the scene of the crime, testified that he had been shot at from ambush. A bullet went through the door of his car but missed him.

So far only circumstantial evidence has connected Smith with the slaying of McKenzie, whose widow faces a life sentence for the murder. He was slain with an ax.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON SOCIAL EVENTS

Interesting Social Events Approach

Interesting Events Soon To Hold Social World

IT just seems a week or two ago, doesn't it, that social news, if there were any, was about what Pittsburgh society folks were doing at Watch Hill or Bar Harbor or Southampton. And now September not only has come, but is going! Just one more week and October is here. Already the social season has opened. And by early October everyone will be back in town, and will stay home until January or February.

Between now and January a lot of interesting things are going to happen. As usual there will be many a young girl who will make her bow to the social world of her elders, and put aside her school books and her sub-deb days.

NEARLY all the debut dates have been named, and by the middle of next month all the coming out teas probably will be known. I've just heard of a new date—that of Harriet Wainwright. Her mother, Mrs. Harris E. Wainwright, will present her daughter at a luncheon in her home on Beechwood boulevard Tuesday, October 30. The Wainwright family had a debbie last year, too, don't you remember? Florence Wainwright was presented last season, I remember.

VYING with the debutantes for the center of the social stage in the fall are always the autumn brides. And this fall is notable for its important marriages among society folks.

This Saturday many of Pittsburgh's society people will be down in Philadelphia. The attraction, I'm sure you've already guessed, will be the wedding of Elizabeth Alcorn, daughter of the Samuel Stewart Alcorns, of Bryn Mawr, and James Hiller Hardie, son of the Walter L. Hardies, of Bartlett street. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock in the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church.

* * *

Mrs. Thorral Hammer, of Brantford, Canada, and Mrs. Samuel Bird, of Wilmington, Del., will be matrons of honor; Jean Browne Scott, of Philadelphia, a cousin of the bridegroom, and a well-known young horsewoman, will be maid of honor.

The bridesmaids will be Janet Hardie, sister of the bridegroom; Margaret Day, of Columbus, O.; Loel Dwyer, of St. Paul, Minn., and Florence Clothier, of Wynnewood, Pa.

Of course most of the ushers and the best man will be members of the younger set in Pittsburgh. William Thomas Todd, Jr., will be best man, and Herbert Munroe III, John Dalzell Shaner, John Nelson Franklin and Andrew Jackson, all of this city; Samuel Stewart Alcorn, Jr., of Bryn Mawr, brother of the bride, and Hardie Scott, of Philadelphia, cousin of the bridegroom, will be ushers.

AT no time of the year do we lack visitors to New York. Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller, of Sewickley, has been there for several days, and has been stopping at the Ambassador.

Mrs. Thomas R. Evans and Ida and Betty Evans and Mrs. Edward H. Jennings, Jr., of Howe street, have been in Gotham, too.

A CARD party will be held tonight in the hall of St. Basil's Church for the benefit of the general school fund. Mrs. Jacob M. Fuchs is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Edward Cummings, Mrs. Mary Jones, Mrs. John Schneider, Mrs. Jacob Engel, Mrs. John Bleichner and Miss Grace Bleichner.

MR. AND MRS. George Perritte, of Carnegie, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Jane Perritte, and John M. Robb, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Robb, of Crafton, which was solemnized Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Robb will make their home temporarily with the latter's parents. The bride has been a student at Winchester and Mr. Robb attended Washington and Jefferson College.

THE marriage of Miss Margaret Uldene Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Brooks, of this city, and Fred E. Large, of Beaver, Pa., will be solemnized October 17 at 7:30 o'clock in the Mt. Washington Methodist Episcopal Church by the Rev. O. J. Rishel. Mrs. George M. Keen, Jr., of this city, will be matron of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Hilda Phillips and Miss Mary Gray. Jean Brooks and Narine Raynes will be flower girls. George Blackwood, of Corliss, will be best man and the ushers will include Ralph Davis and Willard Marr, of Pittsburgh. Miss Mabel Assel will play the wedding music and Miss Elizabeth Stover will sing.

THE marriage of Miss Verena May Hieber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Hieber, of Perrysville, Pa., and Sydney A. Stuart, son of Mrs. Bertha Stuart, also of Perrysville, was solemnized Wednesday at noon in the Hieber home by the Rev. Herman M. Kosack, pastor of the Highland Presbyterian Church. Mrs. John King, of Perrysville, was her twin sister's matron of honor and Mr. King was best man. Mrs. Byron Schlag, of Glenshaw, played the wedding music. After a wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart left for a motor trip. They will be at home with the bride's parents after October 1.

MRS. JAMES LEWIS EWING, of Franklin avenue, Wilkinsburg, entertained at tea in her home Saturday afternoon in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ross Jamison Buterbaugh, who was Miss Eleanor Ewing before her recent marriage, and her sister, Miss Irene Maple, of New Castle. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Frank L. Finley, Mrs. Morgan Williams, Mrs. Walter L. Yates, Mrs. Harry Paul, Jr., Mrs. Walter Cole and Mrs. Allen Patterson, and the aides included Miss Gertrude Ray, Miss Ermadell Gasser, Miss Edna Sherman and Miss Lucille Glenn.

STAGE AND SCREEN ACTIVITIES DETAILED IN PICTURES AND GOSSIP ABOUT PLAYERS

Strolling Through Hollywood With Camera and Eye and Ear Alert for Happenings in Movie Studios

Film Series For Ben Lyon Spoken of As Reward for His Work in "The Air Legion"

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 24.

BEN LYON so pleased with his work in "The Air Legion" that negotiations are under way for Ben to star in a series. No papers have been signed as yet. They couldn't well be, as Ben is on location at Heise, Idaho, making the Mormon film which is called "The Exodus." Ben retains his long-distance telephone habit from the days when he used to 'phone to New York and Marilyn Miller daily. He spent a lot of toll money to call up from Heise (wherever that may be) to report progress on his picture and to announce the glad tidings that he'll be back in Hollywood within another 10 days.

Considering his stage experience and the quality of his voice, it wouldn't be a bit surprising if Ben appeared in one of a sound film. Ben has become such a familiar figure of the screen that people almost forget the hit he made in the stage show, "Mary the Third," from which he graduated to the movies.

"Helen of London"—not of Troy—is the name of the Tiffany-Stahl film which will star Eve Southern. Eve, perhaps best known for her work in "The Gaucho," has played many roles in a highly creditable manner. This one will be directed by George Archambaud, who turned out a fine film for Tiffany in "The Grain of Dust."

Colleen Moore is still having difficulty in locating a leading man. The youth who seems to have the best chance at present is Charlie Delaney. Several tests have been made of Charles, and have apparently been viewed with approval.

Carmel Myers has written a song called "Everything That's Nice to Me." Moreover, it will be published. And again, moreover, she will sing it herself in "The Girl From Argentine," a Gotham production which will be done in color. Watch for Carmel's red hair.

Whatever Director Elmer Clifton may accomplish in his motion picture career, he will probably be most frequently remembered as the man who gave Clara Bow her first chance in the movies. Clara was just a fan magazine beauty contest winner when Director Clifton cast her in the second leading role in his sea picture, "Down to the Sea in Ships." Of course, she was an instantaneous success. Clifton is at present directing "The Devil's Apple Tree" over at the Tiffany-Stahl studios.

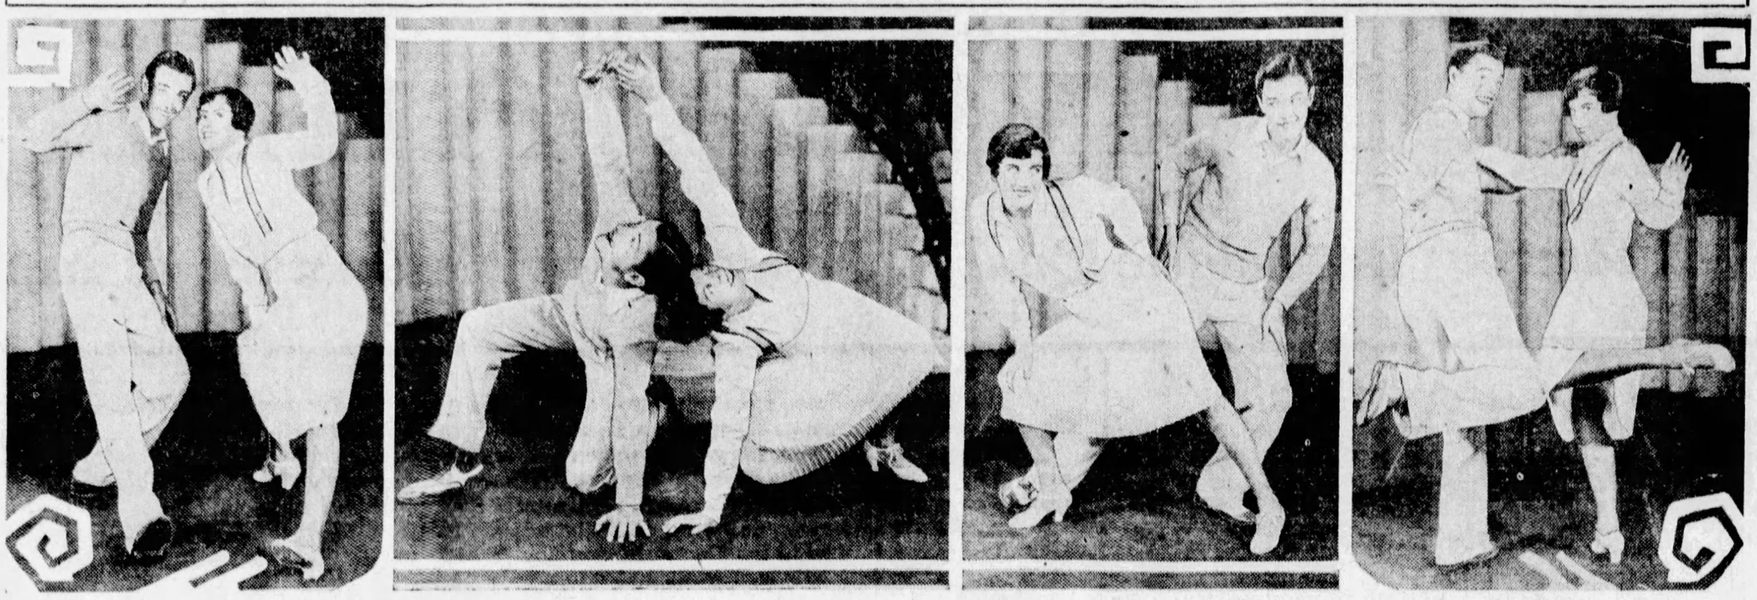
John Barrymore and Director Ernst Lubitsch, together with the rest of the "King of the Mountains" company, have returned from a two-mile-high location in the Canadian Rockies. There will be at least two months more work on the picture before it is ready to be shown. It is to have sound. Hobart Bosworth will appear in the sequences to be made here in Hollywood.

It looks as if the dear public is in for a cycle of prize fight films to take the place, perhaps, of the underworld "mellers" that have been attracting patronage. Following Jim Cruze's announcement that he is to direct Bill Haines in "The Duke Steps Out" and the possibility of the Dempseys bringing "The Big Fight" to the screen, comes further word from Tiffany-Stahl that they are to make "The Spirit of Youth," a story of the ring, to be sponsored by Eve Unsell. Dorothy Sebastian and Larry Kent furnish the love interest while Walter Lang, who is Mrs. Wally Reid's fiance, will handle the megaphone.

The next big event in Hollywood is the premiere of the Fox opus, "Mother Knows Best," which comes to the Carthay circle tonight, and all celebrities turning out in their best bib and tucker to pay homage to the players. One of the Fox officials whispered to me that after this release many more talkies will follow on the crest of the wave. It is the first talkie film to be released under the Fox banner and everyone is very much excited about it.

Belle Bennett is right at home in the title role of "The Queen of Burlesque," in which she now is acting. For before Belle came into the movies she danced in vaudeville. Prior to that she was a circus acrobat. As a child she traveled with a "tent show" operated by her father.

FEATURED PLAYER :-: "OUR DANCING DAUGHTERS" :-: CREATES ROMP



Joan Crowford of "Our Dancing Daughters," has created the Crawford Romp, demonstrated in these pictures by Miss Crawford and Edward Nugent, who appears with her in the photoplay, which comes to the Penn next week.

After starting back to back the partners turn face to face and go into a varsity drag routine, then swing around on the inside foot, allowing themselves to slip to the floor with outstretched hands as guide, here illustrated.

Next they jump up, injecting a little Stockholm stomp in the routine and add a few slide slips for good measure. Miss Crawford, be it known, is Hollywood's champion at the Charleston and Black Bottom style of dancing.

In closing the dance the steppers hold each other's shoulders for support, execute a stomp kick series, each step requiring that positions of hands and feet be alternated, the dancers facing each other throughout the finish.

SATIRE, MUSIC TONIGHT

Tonight the Theater Guild of New York will begin its first Pittsburgh season in the Nixon with the presentation for the first time out of New York of "Marco Millions," a fantastic satire by Eugene O'Neill on the life of Marco Polo. There will be matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

For the second week of its subscription season in the Nixon the Guild will present Ben Johnson's comedy, "Volpone," with the same company that appears in "Marco Millions."

"Good News," Schwab and Mandel's musical comedy, opens its engagement in the Alvin tonight. Laurence Schwab and B. G. DeSylva wrote the book, Lew Brown the lyrics, and Ray Henderson, the score. The piece has songs which have been radioed until they are pretty familiar. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

4 INJURED IN BRIDGE CRASH

Mrs. Julia Brown, 6903 Church avenue, Ben Avon, and her daughter, Julia, 13, are recovering today in Presbyterian Hospital from injuries suffered Saturday night in an auto collision on the Manchester Bridge.

Two others, Mary Burns, 17, of 29 Cass avenue, and Mary Smith, 13, of 1312 Cass avenue, went home after their injuries were dressed.

Joseph Daley, of 2324 Charles street, was taken to Mercy Hospital suffering with cuts and bruises sustained when the car driven by Mike Zolock, 1725 Eckert street, containing the four women, crashed into Daley's car. Both Daley and Zolock were charged with reckless driving. Later J. C. Zolock, brother of Mike Zolock, was arrested at Central Station when he appeared to effect the release of his brother. Mike, it is said, had no driver's license.

Rodant had 20 knife wounds. Lucey was brought to the county jail here. Mrs. Lucey, over whom the men are said to have fought, was being detained as a material witness.

Thursday, September 27th, will be Ile de France Day

Jacques Lindauer, Chef of the Ile de France, the French Line's new 43,000 ton Flagship, will prepare the menus and serve special Luncheon and Dinner at our Clark Building Tea Room Thursday, September 27th.

It was the Ile de France, which has the largest and most daringly beautiful dining room afloat, that furnished the inspiration for the decorating and lighting of our new Tea Room, and it is in recognition of this compliment, so termed by the French Line officials, that the celebrated Chef is coming to Pittsburgh to thus honor us.

The usual a la carte service will be withdrawn for the day.

Dear Money Is Gadfly in Stock Ointment, Trade Up.

—By B. C. FORBES—

THE daughter of a family in very humble circumstances married a man from another part of the country who reputedly was well off. Some months later her mother visited them and on her return was eagerly quizzed by her neighbors. She expatiated enthusiastically and at length about the fine house, the beautiful furniture, the expensive rugs and other possessions of the recently-weds. Finally she added, "Only, she simply can't stand her husband. But there's always something."

Everything in the Wall Street garden is lovely—except that money is costing twice the yield on most of the leading speculative stocks.

WALL STREET had an eventful week. Front page newspaper stories were devoted to its dazzling activities—Friday's turnover was the second largest ever recorded. But it will probably astonish you to learn that average quotations ended exactly where they began the week. All the furious lashing of the waters advanced quotations not one iota.

If this does not betray watchful eagerness to unload whenever opportunity presents, then ordinarily trustworthy signs fail.

THE week's business developments were nearly all cheerful. Official figures for August revealed automobile production of 450,429 cars and trucks, a total never before equalled in any month of the industry's history, and the president of General Motors painted an extremely rosy picture of the industry's prospects.

The Department of Commerce reported record-breaking orders for steel for building operations, and other lines are scarcely less active, with prices on the whole apparently headed toward firmness. The copper industry is booming, at the new price of 15 cents or better. Lead and zinc and brass were marked up during the week. Demand for lumber has reached a new peak for the year. Window glass is dearer.

AGRICULTURAL prices improved towards the close of the week. Wheat spurted notably and cotton also enjoyed a brisk recovery. The head of the Federal Farm Loan Board, Eugene Meyer, describes practically all crops as very much better than last year, while live stock are bringing unusually attractive returns. Agricultural prices, as a whole, now rank favorably with other prices. The general price level throughout the country is shown to have moved up a little last month.

Car loadings have crept above those of a year ago, and the prospect is that this showing will be maintained during the balance of the year. The unfortunate damage done by the storm along the South Atlantic coast is described by Mercantile Agencies as offset by improvement in conditions and trade elsewhere. Our foreign trade returns continue gratifying. August exports show a balance over imports of over a million dollars daily and it is worth noting that exports for the first half of this year ($2,377,533,000) exceeded any pre-war total for a full year.

Employment reports now make little or no reference to any considerable unemployment outside of the textile and coal industries.

EASTERN financiers are worrying very little about the presidential campaign. From the start this assumption has been that a Republican administration would be continued. Thus far Gov. Smith's campaign has not shaken these expectations. It is customary for Wall Street to have one attack of political "nerves." It looks as if nothing of the kind may occur this time.

THE fly in the stock market's ointment is a veritable gadfly—stingingly dear money. Call loans touched 9 per cent, but still more ominous was the rise in time funds to the new peak of 7½ per cent, compared with only a fraction above 4 per cent a year ago, the same rate at which day-to-day loans then ruled.

Yet brokers' loans reported by the Federal Reserve Board revealed an increase of more than $85,000,000 bringing the total ($4,470,000) less than a hundred million dollars under the maximum reached early in June. No substantial progress was recorded in cutting down the almost two billion total of call loans made for non-bankers. A significant feature is that bankers are curtailing their time loans quite substantially, presumably being averse to having their funds in non-liquid form.

These abnormal rates have failed to bring in any gold apart from the previous week. At least moderate imports, however, should logically be witnessed, especially as New York is facing tremendously heavy October first dividend and interest payments.

THE wealthy bulls now in the saddle have so often demonstrated their ability to stave off trouble that they may be able to pilot the market through the threatened squall in money without an upset. It were foolish for outside dabblers in stocks to attempt to cross swords with those now in command no matter how thoroughly convinced that different stocks have been carried to heights which invite a fall sooner or later.

STOCK PRICES AGAIN TURN UPWARD

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(AP.)—The line of least resistance in today's stock market was again towards high prices. Reactionary tendencies developed in some of the airplane issues and specialties in the morning trading, but a broad buying movement in the steels, coppers, motors, oils and foods eventually turned the general course of prices upward. Nearly two score issues, including Anaconda Copper, Packard Motors, Sinclair Oil, Union Carbide and U. S. Steel common established new 1928 high records.

Except possibly to hold down the volume of trading, money rates apparently had little influence on the market. Call loans renewed at 7½ per cent with indications that the ruling rate would deviate little from that figure during the rest of the week. With sterling around the year's low, hope was still held out for further gold imports to relieve the credit situation.

An advance in the price of export copper to 15½ cents a pound was one of the most interesting of the day's trade developments. It stimulated the demand for the red metal shares, U. S. Smelting moving up 4 points to a new top at 57½, while Granby, Kennecott, Magma, American Metals and Howe Sound all broke through their previous 1928 highs.

U. S. Steel returned to its old role as a market leader by climbing more than 3 points to a new high at 161⅜, one block of 8,500 shares changing hands at 161. General Motors sold down a point to 212½ in the early trading and then rebounded to 215½. Packard moved up 2 points to a new high at 93¾ and Hudson was in brisk demand in the early afternoon.

Coty soared 8¾ points to 239¾, Jewel Tea 8 to 137, Union Carbide 6¼ to 186, Murray Corporation 5⅝ to 93¾ and Atlantic Refining 4¾ to 194½, all new high records. Wright Aeronautical broke 8½ points in the early trading and recovered 6 by early afternoon, and Curtiss Airplane regained most of an early loss of 7¾ points. Rails were the only important group to take no part in the upward movement.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THERE is no city where one name stands out more predominantly than does that of T. E. Mitten in Philadelphia. The influence of the Mellon family is probably greater in this city, but the reticence of most of the Mellons tends to keep them in the background so far as publicity goes.

But in Philadelphia Mr. Mitten seems to have his finger in every pie. He has done unbelievable things in the traction field. He has done astounding things in his relations with labor. More lately he has started to do the unexpected in banking.

IT IS difficult to go any place in Philadelphia without the help of one of Mr. Mitten's organizations. "Under Mitten Management" are the street cars, the elevated railways, the new subways, the buses, even the Yellow Cabs. It is now reported that he is turning his attention to air travel.

As a result of this concentration of control, Philadelphia has one of the most efficient and comprehensive transportation systems in the country, although many of his methods and policies are under local criticism from time to time.

BUT the mere ownership of all the means of transportation in a city is not the most interesting aspect of Mr. Mitten's activities.

He has carried the employe ownership idea to its utmost. It has not been merely a clever way to avoid labor troubles, but it has done workers fully as much good as it has done Mr. Mitten.

THE employes of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company actually own over one-third of the common stock of the company. A fund of one-tenth of the payroll is set aside to buy the stock and the employes receive their proportionate share in the dividends.

On January 1 of this year the Mitten Bank Securities Corporation took over the Philadelphia Rapid Transit stock in exchange for its own securities. The directors of this organization are half employes and half officials of the Mitten organization.

In the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company the interest of the employes in efficient operation is identical with that of the official management.

Fatalities to Children Decreased by Education

Almost anything can be learned, actually learned, including the finding out of how not to be killed or injured. Children here have learned that to a remarkable degree and will continue to learn this very valuable lesson. As a result of what they have learned fatalities to children in traffic have decreased 50 per cent in the period of 1928 corresponding to the same period of last year. The showing is credited to educational work among the children, which will be continued, this to include talks to school pupils.

Of course we like to think that the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's "Just Kids" Safety Club, with its many thousand young members, has helped, too.

Eventually all this safety education will be reflected in the habits of the children as they reach a more mature age. They will be more careful pedestrians and more cautious drivers of motor cars. There always will be the other kind, we suppose, even if they do go on exposing themselves to death daily and keep on making prosperity for the undertaker, but we foresee a future in which the careless and reckless will all be killed off, and their places taken by these youngsters who are being so well trained now.

Red Cross Asks for More As Relief Need Mounts

The quota of Pittsburgh Chapter, American Red Cross, for the relief of hurricane sufferers in Florida, Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands, has been increased from $60,000, announced a few days ago, to $150,000. In commenting on the original call an editorial article in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pointed out that every report from the stricken territory revealed conditions much worse than earlier dispatches stated them to be. That has continued. We are just now learning, by picture and printed word, something of the real extent of the desolation and hardship the storm left in the wake of its devastating might.

Allegheny county now is asked to more than double the donation that was asked. That will be easy if we remember how great is the need of those for whom it is requested.

Two Fine Young Men

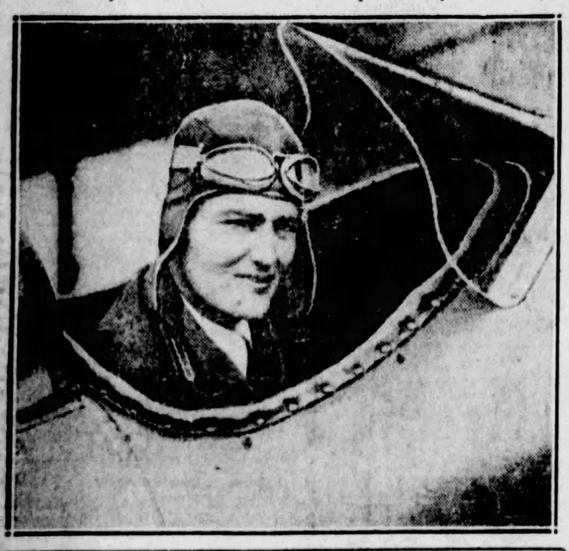
And a Good Sign for the Future.

GOVERNOR SMITH'S SON, ALFRED E. SMITH, JR., YOUNG AMERICAN FLIER.

In this column you see two young men interesting to the country, each the son of a candidate for the presidency. After the fourth of next March one of them will be living in the White House. The other one, just as happy, will be living somewhere else. And, leaving out of consideration his father's disappointment, he will probably be better off.

Flattery is a bad thing for youth. The late Tinplate King Leeds said: "I would give a million dollars to anybody that will tell me how I can bring up my son without having him made a fool by flatterers."

Flattery is a considerable strain upon a boy's modesty.



HERBERT HOOVER, JR., ARRIVING TO MAKE AN INSPECTION OF COMMERCIAL AVIATION IN CHICAGO.

The interesting thing about these two pictures is not in the personalities, but in the fact that they show to what an extent the young people of this country are taking to flying.

Two men far apart are nominated for the presidency, one from New York, another from California, and both of their boys take up flying as a matter of course.

This will soon be a flying nation, with millions of flying machines in daily use.

Thank Providence, every flying machine can be made into a machine for dropping bombs, if it is a weight carrier, or into a machine for pursuing enemy fliers, if it is a fast machine.

And every young American, including these two, will want to know how to drop bombs, how to attack an enemy plane, how to use a machine gun, synchronized to shoot bullets between the blades of the airplane's propeller.

We are fortunate in the quality of our young men, all willing and anxious to fly.

RIDE 'EM, COWBOY!

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

God and Electricity

WHAT is electricity? Science pictures it as EVERYTHING. It is energy. It is matter. It is spirit. It includes in its mobility of form every kind of being, and of activity, that can be named.

"Therefore," says a thoughtful friend, who is by no means atheistical in sentiment, but anxious in inquiry, "why is not electricity God?"

Unquestionably the recent progress made in unveiling the structure of the atom, which leads us so deep into the heart of the material world that we seem to drop through the bottom into underlying immateriality, like a man falling through a dense cloud, is provocative of such doubtful states of mind. We trace the molecules of matter down to their constituent atoms; then we trace the composition of the atom down to its constituent electrons—and lo! on going further still, we are amazed to find the electrons and their controlling nuceli melting out of the region of matter into nothing else than "charges" of electricity. Thus, like the firmly modeled thunder-head of a summer storm, reflecting the sunbeams as if it were a solid snow-clad peak, the material world, under the manipulation of scientific research, glides mysteriously out of the range of the senses.

Through the atom we seem to pass from matter into spirit. The sensual world and the world of spirituality blend into one another by virtue of the electrical constitution of the universe. The enigma of the "universal ether," which though immaterial in its nature, is supposed to convey material effects through radiations, such as light and heat, seems to some minds to be partially cleared up by these astonishing results of atomic investigation.

But here we drift so far from the ordinary religious view of the relations of the material to the immaterial and of the nature of spirit as contrasted with matter, or body, that it is no wonder that some earnest thinkers question the existence not only of an enduring spiritual personality in man, but of God as a governing spiritual entity. Such views of course are not novel nor even modern; but modern science has encouraged them by opening new vistas for them, and principally this most alluring one found hidden in the electrical constitution of the atom, and therefore of all matter, since matter is built up out of atoms.

Against this there is only the argument, which to many is equivalent to proof, that something in the depths of human nature teaches and assures us that no mere self-action of a universal medium, as electricity, can have created the universe, but that there is an intelligence, a supervising and creative power, superior to anything that science can analyze, which governs the universe, and to which we are related by virtue of that spark of a like kind of spiritual intelligence which has been bestowed upon us. This is the field of Faith, into which Science does not enter. Properly viewed scientific discoveries have no relation to anything beyond the world of the senses. Scientific immateriality is not comparable with spirit in the religious meaning of the word. The conception of a soul is not identifiable with that of an electric charge.

Championship Open

KING MENELIK, a four-footed resident of the Bronx Zoo, New York, claims a title that should not go unchallenged. King Menelik is announced by keepers of the menagerie to be the Champion Jackass of the World, because he is the rarest of his species and was captured only after an 800-mile pursuit through African jungle.

All of which appears to us to be flimsy foundation for so great a title. If the zoological directors really desired to place on exhibition the Champion Jackass of the World, they would not need to hunt the jungles of Africa for him—they might find him like the Blue Bird of Materlinck right at home. The only difficulty would lie in selecting the rightful claimant of the title from so many and such close contenders.

If King Menelik is the Champion Jackass of the World, what is the Man Who Rocks the Boat in the surf? What is the Fellow Who Didn't Know it Was Loaded? What about the Fool Who Cries Fire? Where shall be placed the Vandal Who Defaces Public Parks? Where does the Motorist Who Speeds Through Crowded Streets head in? What about the Camper Who Sets Forests Afire?

Oh no, King Menelik should doff his crown and engage in active competition with countless claimants for the title.

Live and Let Live

YOU want to be considered tolerant where the opinion of others is concerned.

Yet whenever a thought is advanced which does not coincide with your ideas, your lip curls into a sneer.

Not an open and above-board sneer, but an overt tilting of the sneering muscle that you think is unobserved.

You have held this attitude toward others' opinions for so long that even in repose your face shows the lines which seem to jeer.

You are surprised that anyone should accuse you of such thoughts.

But it would take many years of the opposite sort of thinking to undo what you have drawn in your own face.

Intolerance is the meanest sort of habit.

Intolerance is the highest-hatted conceit.

Intolerance shows an unlimited egotism.

Live and let live, is what you ought to get into your soul.

If you want others to respect your honesty and opinion, respect others.

You may not agree with others but you can at least concede the right of others to differ with you and still be within the pale as good American citizens.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

Perhaps

PERHAPS, if every one of us
Did all that he could do
To lessen others' weariness,
Make others' dreams come true.

To lift the vexing load of care
From any brother man,
To smooth the way where all must pass
In Earth's great caravan,

If we would all the journey through,
With love and faith conspire,
Then we might shape the world anew,
More like our heart's desire!

Perhaps it may work out this way
In some far distant time
When all the discords of our life
To sudden sweetness chime;

When every vista ends in light,
As centuries elapse,
The world may all grow wholly right,
Life wholly fair, perhaps!

Isn't It So?

You can tell about how a boy will turn out if you know what time he turns in.

All swellings are sensitive, but no other equals the sensitiveness of a swelled ego.

Overproduction simply means that the supply exceeds the demand, yet the world keeps on making mistakes.

Great Passages from the Bible

"Love One Another"

(I. John 3; 11-24)

FOR this is the message that ye heard from the beginning, that we should love one another.

Not as Cain, who was of that wicked one, and slew his brother. And wherefore slew he him? Because his own works were evil, and his brother's righteous.

Marvel not, my brethren, if the world hate you.

We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brother abideth in death.

Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer: and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him.

Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.

But whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?

My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth.

And hereby we know that we are of the truth, and shall assure our hearts before him.

For if our heart condemn us, God is greater than our heart, and knoweth all things.

Beloved, if our heart condemn us not, then have we confidence toward God.

And whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight.

And this is his commandment, That we should believe on the name of his Son Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us commandment.

And he that keepeth his commandments dwelleth in him, and he in him. And hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the Spirit which he hath given us.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

WELL, they still have a few jokes about Scotchmen, but I'm thinking they'll all be told in another year or two. I wonder who we will pick on then. I think maybe it will be the New England village storekeeper, because we can tell all the Scotch jokes over again and blame them on him.

Anyhow, there was a feller in England that had a Scotch ancestor, and in spite of that this English feller had somehow inherited a big house. But when he got married his wife couldn't live in the house, because the ghost of the Scotch ancestor was running around all the time making noises. So they went to the minister, and he told them, "Why that is easy enough to take care of. I know how to deal with them Scotch ghosts. Just put a collection box beside the stairway where the ghost comes down and put a sign on it like this:

"'FOR THE CHURCH.'"

Missing

THERE had been a burglary and the policeman was making a list of the things that had been stolen.

"Ten spoons, six forks, a clock and four vases," repeated the officer, as he finished writing in his notebook.

"Correct," replied the housekeeper.

The inspector paused, his pencil poised judiciously in the air.

"You are quite sure there's nothing else missing?"

"No, there's nothing else," said the other—"barring the gentleman who took 'em!"

Golf Scores

A WOMAN, whose golf ambition outran performance, made a series of rounds on her home course with a view to reducing her handicap.

One day, having completed a round well over a century, she turned to her disillusioned caddie and said, "What did I go round in yesterday?"

The man scratched his head before answering, vaguely. "In a red hat, I think, miss."

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Back again in the city and to a dress rehearsal of a musical show and to a Park avenue restaurant with my wife, where a careless waiter upset cream on a new dress and the day utterly spoiled for both of us.

Nor do I care for the attitude of many restaurants when an accident of this sort happens, it being a custom to consider it no especial concern of theirs. The city in a turmoil of heat and all afternoon at my labor and washing the dog.

In the evening to Ben Riley's Inn for dinner with Karl Kitchen on the pretty open terrace and helped thrice to the most savory frog legs I ever tasted and Billy Seaman there with, as usual, a beautiful lady. Home in the bright glamor of the cool moon and to bed.

A theatrical dress rehearsal is a fountain of excitement. The fate of many players is in the balance, for afterward comes the first weeding out process. To performers a dress rehearsal is often of more consequence than a first night.

The chorus girl who stumbles, sings a sour note, or the small part performer who fumbles a line may find themselves "at liberty." While not always true, the producer usually knows after a dress rehearsal whether or not he has a show that will click.

A dress rehearsal audience is composed chiefly of the playwright, the librettiests, the lyricists, the costumers, scouts from theatrical agencies, relatives of the principals and a few friends of the producer. It may run all day or from dusk until daylight.

Proceedings are often stopped by a skyrocket outburst of hysterics on the part of players cracking under the strain. The director and producer pace the aisles in the snarling attitude of sore-footed bears. Their voices become whispers and their nerves taut as fiddle strings.

The expert can judge from a dress rehearsal the true value of a show. To the casual observer it looks a hopeless fizzle. Following a dress rehearsal a show goes to Atlantic City or Stamford, unless it opens "cold" on Broadway, for a week's tryout and there is whipped into shape and the absurdities ironed out so it comes back to New York for the premier a fairly smooth performance.

A dress rehearsal reveals odd patter of the theater. Such terms, for instance, as "flood the backdrop," "give her a baby spot," "close with a black out" and "drop the border.

The exalted position of the star is shown, too. He or she is the only member of the cast permited to go through the dress performance in ordinary makeup. If a song is to be sung, the star merely hums a few bars and lets it go at that. The director modulates his voice addressing the great person and prefixes it with a "Mister" or "Miss." Chorus men are addressed as "Hey, you!" and chorus ladies merely by last names.

The gay irresponsibility of the chorus girl is a constant wonder to those inclined to consider life as Something with a Big Purpose. She often walks out of the theater in a pique knowing perfectly well she has a long overdue hotel bill and faces another dreary quest for work. That night she is likely to be found the life of the party in a supper club.

"You have never permitted New York," writes a lady in Seattle, "to spoil your sense of values. You can see the worthwhile in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Reno. You have a good head on your shoulders." Thanks for the trade last. But there are many who claim there are better heads on umbrellas.

The Impossible That Happened

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Democracy is controlled by public opinion, and there are certain things that make public opinion. All of these things were hostile, or cold to the prohibition amendment.

First there were the newspapers. Not any leading newspaper or important magazine that I know of urged this amendment. Most of them opposed it, some sneered at it. They do yet.

Then there were the labor unions. They were against it. Samuel Gompers worked hard opposing it.

There was the intelligentsia and all literature. No high brow of importance favored it, no popular book championed it. As a rule they were against it.

The two oldest churches, the Roman Catholic and the Episcopalian, did not particularly champion it.

The stage for the most part ridiculed it.

No political party of importance declared for it. They all sidestepped it as much as possible.

Few leading politicians advocated it.

Most popular songs derided it.

Yet the impossible happened.

The amendment was carried by the majority of national representatives and it was ratified by a sufficient number of state legislatures, to pass it more quickly with one exception, than any other amendment to the Constitution has been put through.

What is the answer?

The answer is that there are many thousands of political speakers and organizations who have been forgotten by those who think they know politics.

Thousands of preachers throughout the United States know no politics except to oppose liquor. Thousands of churches move politically in only one direction. They know that their greatest enemy is liquor, and they could be depended upon to work against it.

Another thing, business was opposed to it. Most railroad companies, life insurance companies, factories and other forms of business knew that liquor impaired their efficiency and limited their profits.

Therefore, by a sort of subterranean movement or popular tidal wave the prohibition amendment went over when everybody said it was impossible.

Strangely enough almost every succeeding body of lawmakers was even drier than the first.

So today the prohibition amendment expresses the popular will in spite of almost every agency that opposed it.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By LEOLA ALLARD.

I'VE stepped into trouble.

I wrote that there was a cure for wives who were forever threatening to leave home. That the husband should tell them to go and next morning they'd be asking him how he liked his toast.

But of course, I meant browbeating wives.

Now a lady in Los Angeles throws the clipping at me with this: "Just tell me what a wife should do, whose husband always tells her: If you don't like it, get out. A husband who never takes me out, doesn't want company, loves to eat at home, goes to bed at eight every night, complaining about how he feels and expects me to read to him while I am resting. He will have no lights and no noise. Is it a wife's duty to stick to a man like this?"

No doubt if the lady did what I would want to do in such a case, the newspapers would have some live news. That lady is married to the exceptional American husband, who helps to prove the rule.

Lady, you suffer from an inferiority complex. Oh, yes, you do! If you didn't, that man never would have got you into the corner where he now has you. You started wrong and are paying the penalty. You are going to have trouble jerking him back to the right road.

If it's your fault, if you have married a long time and given him this treatment constantly, don't blame him. Try to remedy your mistake. If you can't and are thoroughly tired of it, tell him so. You might add that he will be hunting for some time before he finds another sanitarium like yours.

What your husband needs is for you to take a three months vacation. Make him find his meals outside when and where he can, and make him go to sleep without his bed-time story. He will get so lonely he will go out and try to find someone to whom to complain. And what they will do to him will surprise him—and help you. He will find out what the world at large thinks of such a woofer.

The first time he asked you to read him to sleep, you should have kept him awake laughing.

If a woman makes a door mat of herself she can't blame the man so much if he walks on her.

I know an extremely busy lawyer. His wife phones him at the office to go and find her a box of nice berries and bring them home to supper. He gets the message in the middle of an important conference and he leaves early to get the berries, although she has charge accounts at all the best food stores, and a car and chauffeur. He is the kind of a dud you are. If he didn't, she'd get those berries some other way.

I know a woman with a house full of servants and she makes her husband tell the servants what to do. All she does with her brain is to wonder if it would be possible to do a little less than she does.

There aren't many women like you in America, so tell him you have decided to separate your ideas from your habits, and you don't know just when you will be back. Don't come back till he is used to waiting on himself. If that doesn't work, write me again.
